Heldup, robbed, abused because the cash taken was not greater in amount and left tied together by four holdup men, all apparently foreigners, C. J. Klumph, manager, his son John, a clerk, and Amos Byler, a customer, had an unwelcome experience early Saturday evening, when the feed and coal place of business of the J. B. Rous Company, Water street, New Wilmington, was the scene of the latest of the series of holdups that have been perpetrated in the last week in the northern end of the county by a group of automobile bandits.

The holdup was staged about 5:45 o'clock in the evening, just as the place was being closed for the day and C. J. Klumph, the manager-partner, was in the act of balancing up the day's receipts. The loss of the concern is approximately $200, representing the cash of the day's receipts, and $22.90 taken from John Klumph, son of the manager, and a clerk, representing the wages and some change of the latter. The loss of the company is fully covered by insurance.

PA NEW OBSERVES

There is a new telephone pole in Sycamore Way, between Mill and East streets that looks as if a woodpecker had been having a meal there. However, Pa New is told that it wasn't a woodpecker, but the spurs of a lineman's shoes that did it.

The Saturday night scene on Washington street was a pretty one. The crowd wove along the sidewalks, hurrying with their Christmas shopping; automobiles in a long line; knots of people around windows; bundles in arms and the long string of vari-colored lights along both sides of the street and draped attractively around the Diamond.

Car of young Miss stalls on North Mercer street Sunday evening. The little thing dismounts and sets to the task of cranking the stalled car. Young man comes along. He cranks the car. He receives profuse thanks and feels very good. Car passes on in the night.

Watching the fire trucks whizzing through the red lights on Washington street on Saturday leads Pa New to reflect that some better method could be used to provide for safety of all. Isn't it possible to set the lights for green on Washington street and keep them set until all of the lights have been passed?

It's still 1930 by the calendar, but 1931 auto tags can now be used. Pa New saw his first on a car parked on Highland avenue last night. Probably the owner had switched the plates so he could get away to an early start this morning. Today's the 15th.

New Castle Kiwanians will close out the present year with a bang. They've invited the Ellwood City club here for a joint dinner on Tuesday.

STATE BIG GAME SEASON COMES TO END TONIGHT

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—One-half hour after sunset this evening, Pennsylvania hunters will begin their trek homeward from camps and woods—or run afoul of the game authorities.

The 1930 big game season in the state ends tonight with indications pointing toward a bigger kill of buck deer and bear than any other in recent years.

Though reports reaching him are as yet sketchy, John J. Slaughterback, executive secretary of the state game commission, stated that the commission expects the kill of bucks to be well above the average while it is a certainty that the number of bear killed is "well above the average."

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—With the bristling statement that "every consideration of party loyalty requires his defeat," Governor-elect Gifford Pinchot today took definite action looking to the defeat of Senator Augustus F. Daix Jr., Philadelphia state senator, in the latter's fight for re-nomination as president pro-tempore of the next Pennsylvania General Assembly.

Although listing the present condition of Senator Daix's health, for which he expressed regret, as the chief reason for his opposition, Pinchot declared that the pre-election bolt of Senator Daix and the Philadelphia machine rendered the Philadelphia solon "ineligible for the highest honor that can be bestowed by a Republican Senate."

Pinchot trained his heavy artillery on the "Philadelphia gang" in an open letter addressed to State Senator George T. Weingartner of New Castle. Pointing out that the president pro-tempore appoints all Senate committees and, in the absence of the lieutenant-governor, may call to the chair any member of the Senate he desires, Pinchot declared that the post "is the most influential in the Senate."

"One of the main issues upon which I was elected was opposition to the Philadelphia gang," asserted the governor-elect.

"The people of Pennsylvania, outside of Philadelphia, voted by a huge majority of over 300,000 against putting the Philadelphia machine in control of the commonwealth."

IS LAID WASTE

(International News Service)
SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 15.—Fire swept the exclusive Malibu Beach film colony early today, destroying 17 homes of screen notables and causing a loss estimated at more than $300,000.

Among the homes destroyed were those of Louise Fazenda, comedienne; Marie Prevost, Frank Fay, comedian; Ben Hendricks, Jr., Alan Dwan, director; George De Silva, song writer; A. L. Rackett, film producer, and Leo McCarey, director and former fight promoter.

The fire, of undetermined origin, started at 2 a. m. and was not controlled until after daylight when it was stopped in the home of W. W. Woods, Jr.

The entire north end of the film residence colony was destroyed. Lack of telephone communication and fire fighting facilities slowed the alarm and hampered the work of firms with two pumps, sent to the scene by the fire warden's office at Las Flores station.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A five-day week for employees in the government service and in private industry was advocated today by Senator James E. Watson, Republican leader of the senate, as a permanent solution for the unemployment program.

This endorsement of the five-day week by Watson came on the heels of a like appeal from the American Federation of Labor. It was significant too in view of the fact that President Hoover assailed congress for "playing politics at the expense of human misery" just twenty hours after Senator David P. Walsh (D) of Massachusetts endorsed the five-day week in a speech to the senate.

Move For Enactment

Despite the president's attitude, congress moved along toward final enactment of the president's own relief program. Senate and house conferees were to compromise their differences on the president's $118,000,000 construction bill. The house was expected to modify the $60,000,000 feed and seed farm loan bill to meet the president's wishes. One section of the construction bill, expunged by the senate, giving the president power to interchange appropriations may be restored by the conferees, although such authority is without precedent in American history.

Few legislators on capitol hill believe these two measures can possibly relieve unemployment. Even the president's closest advisers feel additional legislative relief is necessary. Senators and representatives are engaged in compiling statistics, relative to unemployment, and information on industrial conditions, to determine what other legislation is required.

The question of permanent relief, which Mr. Hoover has ignored in his communications to congress, also agitated congress. The Insurgent and Democratic leaders have demanded enactment by the house of the Wagner unemployment bills, which would set up a government unemployment reserve of construction funds for use in future emergencies. Thus far, the Hoover-controlled house has kept these bills pigeon-holed.

Number Lost In Boat Disaster Is Not Certain

Estimates Run From 5 To 17

GLASS BOTTOM BOAT
SINKS OFF MIAMI

Charges Crew First
To Leave

(International News Service)
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 15.—The number of missing in the burning and sinking of the glass-bottom pleasure boat Eureka II, off Miami, late yesterday, was estimated at from five to seventeen today.

As there was no passenger list of the boat, it was difficult to make an accurate check of the missing in the confusion.

Large crowds pushed about the docks here this morning and made checking up of the rescued increasingly difficult.

Three are known to be dead and the names of three missing were learned.

The dead:
H. C. Grimm, 60, McCook, Neb., baggage master for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railway.

Clarence Vince, 30, Haverhill, Mass., deckhand on the Eureka II.

Unidentified woman, about 55, wearing wedding ring with initials "W. V. L."

May Be 17 Lost

Possibility that the missing list might total as high as 17 was feared, following the report this morning of S. G. Haley, master of the yacht Senorita, owned by L. H. Senior, New York. Haley said when he noticed the fire on the Eureka II he jumped into the yacht's speed boat and turned out to sea, where he rescued one survivor more than a mile from the wreckage.

"I saw no one drown and I did not see any bodies drifting out to sea, but the man I rescued was rapidly drifting out to sea and I picked him up more than a mile from the wreckage of the Eureka II," said Haley.

A calmer version of the disaster was told today by Miss Adele Adelburg of Louisville, Ky. She said that Captain Styles was calm during the fire and explosion and advised the passengers to obtain life preservers and leap into the sea. She said the life belts were distributed without confusion and she denied there was a panic among the passengers.

Other passengers related today that the moment after the last passenger left the boat the first explosion was followed by three more and a fierce fire. Some of the passengers said they started swimming and were half a mile from the spot when the boat sank.

The survivors were taken to Miami Beach on the ocean side and to Miami and Coconut Grove.

Charged with violation of the Pennsylvania Securities Act and conspiracy to defraud, A. S. Geyer, a salesman for the Atlantic Drug and Chemical Company is in the Lawrence County jail, the president of the company, Henry M. Bass is out on bail, and warrants are issued for the arrest of J. Ritchie, another salesman, and D. S. Hammond, treasurer of the company. The arrest of Geyer was made Saturday, and immediately upon his arrest County Detective H. M. Lee and Constable B. J. Rocks hurried to Pittsburgh where Bass was arrested at his suite in a hotel.

According to the county detective's office the company sold stock in blocks of ten, only ten shares of preferred being sold to a customer. With the ten shares of preferred ten shares of common stock. If after a certain period of time the customer decided that the stock was good, he was permitted to buy up to 90 shares more, and the purchase of the additional shares was said to make him a director.

Only Bass, Hammond and a man named A. Leslie Brown, secretary of the company held the voting stock, however, it is claimed. Down payments of ten dollars were taken on the sale of ten shares at ten dollars each, and the balance to be paid in installments.

MADRID, Dec. 15.—Another attempt by Republican forces to stage a general revolt in Spain—the second within four days—flared up today and died a-borning, and late this afternoon the leaders of the revolt were reported fleeing to Portugal.

ADD REPORT
Coincident with the declaration of general tenseness throughout the country, the air corps at Cuatrovientos air field mutinied and declared for revolution and a Republican form of government.

Mutiny Checked.
The mutiny was put down with dispatch by government forces led by General Orgaz, one of Spain's leading military figures, after a pitched battle lasting a half hour. The revolutionaries raised a white flag after a brief bombardment by government forces.

Major Ramon Franco, Spain's foremost airman, who recently escaped jail where he was serving a sentence for seditious writing, General Queipo Deliano and other leaders of the mutiny were reported to have escaped toward Portugal in an airplane when the mutiny collapsed.

Fire Proof Structure To Replace Mill Razed
By Fire

George D. Blair, Jr., president of the Blair Strip Steel Company, whose old main mill plant was razed by flames October 1, announced today that "production will start by January 1."

Workmen are rushing to completion a new $21,000 fireproof brick and steel mill building which is expected to be finished by the first of the year. The new building will replace the old main plant of the company. The new building will adjoin the mill building built about a year ago and saved by firemen during the fire.

A. W. Bauman is the general contractor for the new building and Joseph H. Hartland has the brick contract. The new building, to be one story in height will hold three 16-inch mills, the pickling department and electric generators for the entire factory.

More Airplanes Seen Banishing Public Timidity

Increase in Number Will Remedy Situation Now Existing

PASSENGER LINES MUST SHOW GROWTH

(International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 15.—More airplanes flying in passenger and express service along the Pacific coast will be the remedy for the timidity shown by the public for the aerial mode of transportation, according to Major Thomas G. Lanphier, plane manufacturing executive and war-time flier now making a tour of the nation in the interests of aviation.

Major Lanphier is an aviation enthusiast of the first magnitude and holds five important executive positions with airplane manufacturing concerns and transportation companies.

"The coast airline," he declared on a recent visit to Portland, "should be a gold mine in passenger business. But you need 10 planes daily instead of two. It's the best chance for development I've seen on account of the great saving in time between coast cities. With more frequent schedules people will use planes more."

"The surface hasn't even been scratched thus far," according to Lanphier. "Aviation no longer is a business for fools and supermen. It's for everyone and all classes and ages are going in for it."

The major scoffed a bit at the physical requirements for private fliers.

"You don't need as much physical fitness to fly a plane as you do to drive an automobile in present-day traffic. Neither do you need as much judgment," he said.

Morton had been a Republican all his life and was never actively interested in politics until the State Road bond became a major issue in Wright county. Declaring himself absolutely in favor of a $100,000,000 state bond issue Morton was chosen over the incumbent representative who opposed the issue.

ARREST TWO FOR STOCK SELLING

to meet Geyer in New Castle Saturday and purchased some stock. Immediately Constable B. J. Rocks made the arrest and put Geyer into the county jail, incommunicado. In order that he could not communicate with Bass, Lee and Rocks then went to Pittsburgh where Bass was arrested. He was expected to provide bail for Geyer this afternoon.

When the company was organized last August the capital stock was placed at $25,000. This it is alleged has been raised to $500,000. The sale of the stock was carried on extensively in Lawrence, Beaver, Butler, and surrounding cities and counties.

The product manufactured by the company is a medicinal liquid used in relieving colds in the head and is on sale in many drug stores. Apparently the charge arising from quality of the product manufactured, but from the method of stock selling.

Listed among the buyers in New Castle are business and professional men. The arrest Saturday came as a surprise and following the holding of Geyer, Bass was brought in Saturday night and held by Alderman Walter T. Hamilton. The arrest of the other two is expected soon.

The wealthy William Dumps desired to dispose of some of his land. So he appointed Sam Gippis, who was known for his energy and aggressiveness, to sell the land as quickly as he possibly could. One day Sam Gippis executed a contract in writing in the name of Mr. Dumps for the sale of a tract to a Mr. Jones. Mr. Jones immediately paid down a sizable portion of the money called for in the contract.

Jones was quite an energetic man himself, and so he hustled about and immediately signed the land over to one Smith. But when Smith came to claim the land Mr. Dumps refused to go through with the business. Smith sued. At the trial Mr. Dumps argued that Sam Gippis, the agent, really had only a verbal authority and so could not make any binding contracts of sale.

Lest we forget: Tuesday is the last day to mail Christmas packages to Wyoming, Texas, South Dakota and North Dakota. It is, if you're particular about getting the gift to your friend on time, Wednesday's the last for mail to Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Louisiana, Arkansas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Florida and Mississippi.

Already the idea of outdoor electrical displays has struck upon three or four residents of the city, and as a result they had illuminated porch festoons burning last night. Pa New saw a few on the north hill.

Owen Penfield Fox, a resident of the North hill district, probably knows more about Indians and their ways than any other local man. For years he spent his time visiting reservations mingling with the red skins. He's even slept side by side with them on overnight hikes. His hobby is to record Indian chiefs and reservation scenes on canvas. He possesses a large number of paintings of his own.

The business office of The News had a four-legged visitor this morning. The saddle horse of J. F. Rantz made its way inside from the street!

Hundreds of Christmas trees made their appearance in front of local stores on Saturday. The trees had arrived several days ago by the carload at the local railroad depots. There are some beauties this year.

Pa New observes a lot of automobiles with the new 1931 Pennsylvania license tags on this morning. Today was the first that motorists were permitted to use them, and quite a number are taking advantage of the fact.

The cold snap over the week end brought the level of local streams down. The Shenango river dropped over a half foot over the week end, in spite of the fact that quite a lot of rain fell in the upper Shenango basin last week.

Asked for Accounting On $10,000,000 Estate

Nash Rockwood, New York attorney and former County Judge of Saratoga County for thirteen years, has been directed by Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel to show cause why an order should not be entered requiring him to make a certified detailed accounting of what once was the $10,000,000 estate of the late Alexander McDonald, Standard Oil magnate.

tells the story of the affair as it occurred in the Roux Company place of business on Water street opposite the station of the Sharpville Railroad.

"We were closed for the day and balancing today to a representative of The News," said Mr. Rockwood, "all but two doors had been closed and locked. It was about 5:45 p. m."

"Amos Byler had come in just then and given his order. My son John had gone to the feed room in the rear of the office and he and Mr. Byler had proceeded there to get the stuff wanted by Mr. Byler. When a fellow rushed in the front door, saying sharply that he wanted fifty cents worth of cracked corn, I sensed a holdup and even as he had uttered the words of the order, the man snapped out 'Stick 'em up,' showing the point of an automatic over the edge of the desk.

"At the same time, two others of the group rushed to the feed room and stacked up my son and Mr. Byler. A fourth holdup man was in the car, which they had driven up to the platform at the side of the feed room.

"The driver of the machine and one of the men who went into the feed room had white handkerchiefs on, covering part of their faces. The man who held me up and the other man in the feed room had nothing masking their faces. The man holding me up had on a white coverall with blue stripes.

"As we were insured, I showed them the days receipts, affording them the opportunity of getting the cash and checks, of which there were quite a number. They took the cash, which as near as we can determine was approximately $200 but said of the checks that they did not want those 'things.'

"They demanded of my son and Mr. Byler, their cash. I had just paid my son his week's wages and they secured this and change amounting to $22.90 from him. Mr. Byler had just paid his last cent to me in payment of his order and showed them his pocketbook, which they took and on finding it empty threw it away.

"They tied me up in the feed room, tied each hand separately and then tied all together, back to back.

"As they were tying us up, they expressed their disappointment at not securing more cash and seemingly angered by this fact, vented their disappointment on us by slapping and kicking us. They knocked or threw me down with considerable violence and my right arm is practically paralyzed from the effect of the same.

"They took my glasses, which were very essential to me. When I appealed to them to leave those with me, they finally threw them up on some feed bags where I secured them later.

"I finally managed to work myself loose about 6:10 p. m. and immediately went to the telephone and had the state police and other authorities at New Castle, Mercer and Sharon advised of the situation in a few minutes."

Cars Are Stopped
State Police Officers Hennecheck and Richards answered from this city and made a thorough search of the district. State police authorities throughout the entire section, stopped and inspected many cars in the effort to get the holdup men.

Three of the holdup men are described as follows: No. 1, 25 to 30 years, 180 pounds, tall, wearing dark cap and white coverall with blue stripes, dark complexioned, needed a shave.

No. 2, short, puh nose, 23 to 25 years, five feet six or seven inches.

No. 3, 22 to 25 years. Five feet four inches, 130 pounds. Light complexioned. Dark overcoat and hat. Slavish nationality.

No. 4: Driver. No description.

ADD HUNT BANDITS
Officers investigating the holdup are inclined to believe that the gang came from Youngstown, O. An auto was reported going through Pulaski in the direction of Ohio a short time after the robbery that is believed to have contained the bandits.

Likewise, officers believe that the gang is the same aggregation that lured Dr. Snyder out in a car last week and robbed him.

There are several clues as to the identity of the gang, and some early developments are anticipated.

Five hundred million dollars would relieve most of the farmers if they got the cash instead of the relief.

MOST RECENT FACTS ABOUT NEW PLANET PLUTO

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter
Since discovery of planet Pluto in March, 1930, it has been located on photographic plates made in Belgium in 1929, also in Yerkes observatory in 1921, and at Mount Wilson in 1919. These photographs have enabled computers to determine more accurately the path of the new planet's orbit, and the length of time of its orbit. Its orbit is inclined to the plane of the ecliptic—the earth's orbital path—17 degrees 9 minutes; its eccentricity—out-of-center—of its orbit is 0.254, an ellipse almost a circle; its perihelion—nearest approach to the sun—will be in 1938; and its period (time for one orbital revolution), is within one year of 249.7 years. Its mass (amount of physical matter) and diameter have not yet been determined.

Accuses Crew
Miami, Dec. 15.—Charges that the crew were among the first to leave when the excursion boat Eureka 11 sank off Miami were made today by Fred G. Norman, New York City police sergeant, who was among the rescued passengers.

"A three-piece orchestra played like herces to prevent a panic and quiet the passengers when the fire broke out on the boat," said Norman. "The musicians were among the last to leave the boat. I was among the last, but the crew went among the first."

Norman's story of the explosion and fire on the boat differed from others. He said that the passengers were not thrown into the sea by the explosion, but remained on board donning life belts, and finally all jumped overboard. Others said that the explosion threw all the passengers into the ocean.

"Panic reigned when the flames spread rapidly," Norman said. "Everyone was running around yelling 'fire.' The captain and the crew made no attempt to organize the situation. Two men pulled down life preservers. They were held in racks between decks. I did not see any lifeboats."

Arthur S. Deen of Reading, Pa., one of the rescued passengers, said he was below decks when a blast shook the boat. He said one and possibly two explosions followed the first.

"The boat began to rock then," said Deen, "and it seemed as though it was sinking. Flames were coming out of the engine room and I saw some of the people had been thrown into the water. Others jumped in. I think a gasoline explosion caused the fire."

CHALLENGES WORLD TO EQUAL DANCE RECORD

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Dec. 15.—Herr Wedy Will of Germany has just established a new world's record by dancing uninterruptedly for 133 hours, defeating the former record holder Fernando, also a German. Herr Will is eager to know whether there is any among the dancing fans all over the world capable (or who has time enough) to beat his record.

During his feat Mr. Will danced with 1,901 girls to the tunes of 2,315 foxtrots, waltzes and tangos.

REPORT SECOND REVOLT ATTEMPT FAILS IN SPAIN

army who had gone over to the side of the rebels, were defeated today by a detachment of Spanish troops led by General Orgaz, one of the country's leading military figures.

The clash took place following the discovery that airplanes which had flown over Madrid dropping revolutionary leaflets had set out from Cuatrovientos field.

Discovery that the air force was concerned in the revolutionary movement, launched in the wake of a general strike throughout Spain, prompted Premier General Damaso Berenguer to take strong measures against the insurrectionaries.

A picked detachment of troops, reinforced by civil guards, was rushed to the air field. The loyal forces immediately took the offensive, bombarding the rebels for half an hour at the end of which time the insurrectionists hoisted the white flag of surrender.

Movement Fails.
Immediately after suppression of the air force revolt, the government issued a communique stating that the movement had failed, and credited the loyalty of the army with sparing Spain from revolution.

The communique stated that the army throughout the country had remained loyal to the regime and that as a result the revolt was a failure.

Discovery that the airplanes which dropped the revolutionary manifestos had been sent out from Cuatrovientos localized the disturbance and enabled the government to take swift and effective measures of suppression.

A number of the air force revolted were captured, and it was reported they would be dealt with summarily. Some who fled when the bombardment began were pursued by civil guards. The exact extent of the casualties could not be learned immediately.

By H. C. MONTEE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

The Spanish political bubble burst today in a flame of revolution which threatened to spread throughout the country. The object of the revolt was to sweep King Alfonso from his throne and to set up a Republican form of government.

The movement which started on Friday with the revolt of troops "arrived at Jaca on the northern frontier, and continued today with the mutiny of the air corps at Cuatrovientos air field, simultaneous with the declaration of general strikes in numerous large cities of the country, was the culmination of political agitation which has been brewing in Spain for many months.

A rigid censorship on all channels of communication virtually isolated Spain from the rest of the world but such news as resourceful correspondents were able to forward to London, Paris and other points indicated that the government, headed by Premier General Damaso Berenguer, still maintained the upper hand late this afternoon.

The outbreak at Jaca was put down with dispatch on Saturday and two of the ringleaders were summarily executed by a firing squad. It was the news of these executions which appeared to have been the final factor in spreading the flame of revolt throughout the country.

General strikes were called in nearly a score of important cities and towns as soon as news of the executions became public. The air force at Cuatrovientos air field revolted. Rebel planes swarmed over Madrid bombarding the city with rammets calling upon the populace and the army to join the revolt.

A strong force of loyal federal

DAUGHTERS OF 1812 CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

The Daughters of 1812 had a delightful meeting Saturday afternoon when they gathered at the home of Mrs. E. F. Toepfer, on Hazelcroft avenue, for their annual Christmas program. Mrs. Chas. Greer, regent, presided and roll call was responded to with "Christmas Quotations" followed by the regular business routine. After matters of importance had been efficiently transacted, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Nellie B. Brooks, chairman of the program.

The first to participate was Miss Virginia Weinschenk who told of "Christmas of Days Gone By" followed by Gladys Biddle. Miss Biddle sang two vocal solos and the little Misses Mary Louise Kirkpatrick and June Atwell, sixth grade pupils at the Arthur McGill school entertained with two Christmas songs. The balance of the program consisted of foreign children of the Neighborhood House who told of the ways Christmas is observed in the different countries, and also sang solos in that language appropriate to the occasion. Mrs. F. L. Wimer told the way France observes Christmas, and gave a solo: Mrs. Fishburn, England's custom and gave a song: Estella Dutkin, Russian celebration: Mrs. Toepfer, Germany's celebration: Miss Jeanne Doiron, Polish celebration and also sang a song in their tongue. John Jackson whose mother is from Sweden, brought a paper written by Mrs. Jackson explaining the Swedish customs and sent some beautiful hand made candles: Anna Deet of Syria gave an interesting account of their ways of celebrating and a solo and Eleanor Sylvester, told of Italy's festivities at this time of the year.

Mrs. Charles Greer played the "First Noel The Angels Did Say" in a beautiful manner. Mrs. W. H. Lukert accompanied the greater part who took part in the program, at the piano.

The members brought their gifts for the Neighborhood House and Joe Boran acted as Santa Claus's helper. Later, tempting refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her daughter Margaret Toepfer, Virginia Weinschenk, and Mrs. W. D. Cobau, which chronicled the close of a most interesting and enjoyable afternoon.

Miss Rose Webster, of Chautauqua, N. Y., and Miss Molly Davis were special guests of the occasion. The next gathering of the Daughters of 1812 will be on Wednesday, January 17 at the home of Mrs. Mary W. Dean, of 471 East Washington street.

DINNER HONORS YOUNG BRIDE AND GROOM

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. McKissick, a bride and groom of recent date, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McKissick of the old Pittsburgh-Sawanna road entertained a group of friends at a beautifully appointed dinner Saturday evening in their home. A most delectable menu was served by the hostess at 5:30 o'clock at a table appointed in tones suggestive of the Christmas season. Later informal pastimes were enjoyed, spent with games, music and chat.

Those participating included Mr. and Mrs. William McKissick and son Billy, Henry McKissick, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McKissick, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McKissick and son Dale, and the honored couple, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. McKissick. The latter were the recipients of some lovely gifts.

RAILROAD BENEFIT DANCE IS SUCCESS

A merry throng of Pennsylvania railroad folk and a host of outside friends numbering well over the 1,000 mark, was present Saturday night to participate in the annual benefit dance-card party of the Erie and Ashtabula division's Women's Aid, sponsored at the Cathedral to raise relief funds for the railroad's needy families.

At no other time has success stamped the affair more indelibly than it did this year, both from the financial standpoint and that of attendance. Fully 200 or more of those present came from out-of-town points, aboard a special train from Ashtabula.

Dancing was in vogue in the spacious dance hall from eight to 12 o'clock, while card playing featured from 8:30 to 10:30.

Superintendent H. T. Frushour, the general chairman of arrangements, announced today that between $2,800 and $2,700 would be realized from the benefit, the entire sum of which, exclusive of the small portion covering expenses, will be deposited in the aid's general relief fund.

Special out-of-town guests here from Cleveland included General Superintendent and Mrs. P. L. Grove and daughter Pauline, Lake Grand division; Superintendent and Mrs. Raymond Sweenk, Cleveland division, and Master Mechanic and Mrs. H. S. Noble, Cleveland division. A large number of E. & A. officers from out-of-town also attended.

Appropriate prizes were given for those having high scores in bridge and 500, while other feature prizes were also made during the evening. Thirty tables of cards were in play.

Assisting Superintendent Frushour in handling arrangements were C. W. Van Nort, division engineer; J. S. Richards, master mechanic, and E. C. Johnston, chief clerk to Mr. Frushour.

Bon Accord Club.
Bon Accord club had a tureen supper on Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Alice Fusco of 1210 Pollock avenue. Table decorations were blue and white.

Games and dancing were the pastimes of the evening. The special guest of the evening was Miss Esprit Marie Abruzzi of the International Institute for Foreign Women on Pennsylvania avenue. The club prize was won by Miss Clara Guido.

Laugh-Along Club Meets
Miss Ina Mae Ellison, of North Mercer street, entertained in a charming manner, associates of the Laugh-Along Club in her home Friday evening. Matters of interest were discussed, and later a period of games was enjoyed. Roberta Myers and Phyllis Elder were winners, and received some lovely prizes.

At a suitable time, the hostess, mother, Mrs. John R. Ellison served a dainty repast, which was the closing feature.

Visit In Cleveland
Mr. and Mrs. B. I. French, and son Junior, Mr. and Mrs. C. Glenn Johnston and Jennie Baker of Wilmington avenue spent the week end in Cleveland, Ohio, as the guests of Miss Baker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baker, and family.

While in Cleveland they attended the food show presented by the Swift Packing company.

No Sewing During Holidays
There will not be any sewing at the Jameson Memorial Hospital on Wednesday mornings, until after the holiday season. The dates of meeting will be announced at that time.

Attend Bridal Shower.
Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Johnson of 614 Allen street, who went to Pittsburgh Saturday to attend a shower given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Dan McCurral, a bride and groom of recent date, will return home today.

Theta Nu Club
Mrs. Roy McGaffie, of East Washington street, will receive members of the Theta Nu Club in her home Wednesday evening for their Christmas social affair. This meeting will also be one of importance.

On the Up and Up

Year in and year out for the past 42 Christmas seasons—in good times and times not so good—Higgins Bros. have done a flourishing holiday business.

We don't mean to boast. We know we're day laborers, not magicians. But we have a real satisfaction in what our conscientious buying and selling have done to promote Yuletide cheer. We have built our business on the theory that if we make it clear our intentions are honorable, we'll have all the customers we can handle.

That's why things at Higgins are on the up and up these days. Don't delay coming another minute—you'll find it a delightful store and you'll find some remarkable values in gifts. We have lots of them, but they move awfully fast, so hurry. For instance,

NEED TO CHECK CRIME HERE

LAWRENCE county is witnessing a mounting number of crimes, especially robberies, that must be halted.

It behooves every law enforcement officer in the city of New Castle; and in the county as a whole to become unusually active in the prevention of crime; and to co-operate to give the city and county protection against the army of lawbreakers that has apparently centered on this locality at this time.

Some effective means should be provided to cope with this difficult situation.

In addition to the crimes in the city, the lawbreakers are extending their operations more and more to the outskirts of the city, and to the smaller communities of the county.

The time is here when heroic efforts are needed by the men whose duty it is to guard the safety of the public.

More uniformed officers should be patrolling the streets of New Castle. More officers should be seen on the streets of the smaller communities. If these communities have no regular police officers, they should provide for some for this winter, and get them out to be seen. Certain it is that the few state police here, and county-wide officers cannot do effective work in protecting all communities in the county, without the assistance of these communities.

In every time of depression, there is a wave of outlawry. But it is not enough to say that such a condition is unavoidable. Effective steps should be taken to halt it.

We believe that it would be a good thing for all police agencies of the city and county to get together, look the situation in the face, and see what can be done to halt this epidemic of hold-ups and other crimes.

WALLACE AND WESTMINSTER

Fourteen years ago, Westminster College needed a new president. The school was small, the tuition rates low, the facilities inadequate. There was need for a man who could bring the old school up the ladder of education, a man who could by his leadership, give Westminster her proper place in the college world.

The man was selected, the enrollment gradually increased, the quality of the faculty was raised, new buildings added to the campus and the campus itself enlarged. That man was Dr. W. Charles Wallace, who has just asked to be relieved of the presidency because he feels unable to carry out the financial program the board has laid down.

Not everyone has agreed with everything Dr. Wallace has projected. But there has been and is a unanimity of opinion that the school has advanced because of his leadership, his ability, and his constant striving for the college.

He believed that Westminster should be rated as an "A" institution. It wasn't when he took over the reigns. It is now. He believed the school needed a new gymnasium. It was built.

His reconstruction work following the fire of 1927 when Old Main was destroyed, will be remembered. His courage in daring to suggest that a Boy's Dormitory could be built at the same time an administration building was under way caused some gasping, but today the wisdom of his advice is apparent.

Dr. Wallace leaves Westminster College with the respect of those who are truly the friends of the college. As the years widen between his administration and those of his successors, the real value of Dr. Wallace to Westminster will be more and more apparent.

The puzzle-friend who married got a puzzle he never will solve.

It may be that promised co-operation the president is getting from congress, but it isn't our idea of co-operation.

"Opportunity Knocks For Those Without Fear, Editor Avers"

The following is a message to American business men from Herbert N. Casson, Editor, Efficiency Magazine, London, England:

"You are depressed. You think you are crippled. You are afraid of the future. You are full of fears. You have half the gold of the world, and half of the machinery, and most of the automobiles and all the skyscrapers.

"You have the greatest home market in the world, and the largest corporations that the world has ever seen. You are ruled by ideas and less by tradition than any other people in the world. You have usually done what you thought you could do.

"How can it be possible that a progressive nation of 120,000,000 people can be wrecked by the speculations of a little handful in Wall Street? The prices that were forced too high had to come down. Today all prices are too low.

"There is now a golden opportunity for every man who has eyes to see it. Dollars are now being sold for thirty cents. Practically every security in the United States is now being sold at less than its value. The way to create a fortune is to buy from pessimists. Pay your money and take the risk.

"Frick started his career by buying coke ovens in the slump of 1873. Carnegie made $300,000,000 by buying steel plants in slumps. Hundreds of fortunes have been made by buying from pessimists. In five years from now most Americans will belong to the 'I wish I had' club. Then it will be too late to buy a dollar for thirty cents. The opportunities will be gone.

"When a horse balks, the balk is in its head, not in its legs. He moves on when he thinks he will. And when an American business man is depressed, the slump is in his head. There is nothing serious to prevent him from making money if he thinks he will.

"When fear rules the will, nothing can be done, but when a man casts fear out of his mind, the world becomes his oyster.

"To lose a bit of money is nothing, but to lose hope—or lose nerve and ambition—that is what makes men cripples.

"This silly depression has gone on long enough. Get rid of it. It is inside of you. Rise and walk."

An amateur boxer accepted the invitation of a professional who was meeting all comers. As the referee introduced him, the amateur tugged at his sleeve and whispered in his ear.

The professional ducked a wild swing, led with his left and knocked the amateur down. The referee stood over the fallen one, counting him out.

At eight the dazed youth sat up and spoke in a husky whisper. The referee raised his hand for silence.

"Kid Binks also desires me to state," he said, "that this is his last appearance in any ring."

JUST THE WAY IT HAPPENED

This story has no moral. It's just a description of how one small boy grew a little older.

I knew him well. He was a skinny kid with pink cheeks. The girls teased him about the pinkness and embarrassed him. Another of his shames was that long before he had had long yellow curls and his mother still had several of them carefully put away—and sometimes she showed them to visitors. He was quiet, but he was vain—secretly. He was shy and he didn't know what to do with his hands. That small boy could chin himself 27 times and do a somersault dive, but he couldn't play ball and wasn't so clever with his fists. He had grown unevenly, you see.

Girls bothered him. He never tipped his hat or said hello to them if he could avoid it. When he saw them coming his way he looked into store windows till they were safely by. Once, when he tried that he heard two little girls giggle as they passed; and when he came out of his trance he saw he'd been staring intently at a display of corsets—and other things. He despaired of ever getting much older. Or at least of growing all the way up, all over.

But just about then he got himself a job collecting subscription money for the town paper.

There were 36 saloons in that town and once a month he had to go into each of them and collect two-bits from long-mustached bartenders. He learned to spit in cuspidors. He saw Great Art in gilded frames above the saloon mirrors, but usually he saw that art dimly through protective coverings of mosquito netting.

Sometimes even a bartender talked to him as man-to-man, and once, on a hot summer's day, he leaned against the bar in the traditional attitude and drank lemonade. That made him feel wicked indeed and afterwards he walked down the street and met a young lady and tipped his hat to her like a little gentleman. And when the girls teased him, he smiled in a superior sort of way.

So perhaps he felt older, wiser, more sophisticated than those other young people who had as yet seen nothing of life. He had been in SALOONS, on business, of course, but he HAD been in them; so of course he was Growing Up. So he did begin to grow up.

There is no moral, as I said before. It's just an incident about a small boy who went into saloons and began to act Grown Up because he knew 36 bartenders in his home town.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

IT DEMANDS ROUGH WORK

Now that Chicago and the Federal Government are embarked on a wholesale bandit hunt, it might be interesting to know how other people have met this problem.

Bandits are an old story in Mexico.

Marcos Diaz was a sort of Al Capone in Sinaloa. He thought they couldn't catch him. Whereupon they captured his grandmother, his mother, his wife and his children.

Then they sent him this message: "We are going to shoot one of your fond family per day until you come in and surrender. Marcos came."

There is a wild mountain district on the west coast which from time to time becomes infested with bandits. Last year they got a little weary of the bandits.

They enlisted the services of a famous knife fighter. He joined one of the bandit gangs; picked quarrels with the leaders; fought duels and killed them one by one.

The greatest clean-up occurred in a lonely little town in the mountains of Nayarit. The police, through agents, staged a grand fiesta—knowing that the bandits would not be able to resist the call of the seniors. After they all arrived, the police agents surrounded and slaughtered them.

Mexico has its own Devil's Island, the Tres Marias. There hardened types of criminals are turned loose to shift for themselves. They can cultivate the ground and raise food for themselves; steal from each other or starve, as they please. If they try to escape, sharks tear them to bloody shreds.

Wherein our police system is helpless under our laws is that they cannot hope to get the real criminals. The hired killers occasionally bump each other off; but the Al Capones live in Florida mansions and have expensive offices, where prospective victims are indexed by secretaries.

The killer is a type peculiar to American crime. An old English police sergeant who had been on duty for twenty-one years in the tough Limehouse district of London, said that during that period he had never arrested but one crook who was armed.

The London police do not carry guns. This sergeant said that they once had to arrest a maniac. They hunted all over the station trying to find a gun, and finally had to borrow one from another police station.

The Berlin police carry swords. Which is a very good idea. There is something very disturbing to the mental equanimity in the prospect of having hardware run through your anatomy.

Mussolini made short work of the Mafia, which was a criminal gang more powerful than the Chicago gangs, and Lawrence County knows something about the Mafia. It ranks included judges, lawyers, politicians. He didn't wait to "catch them in the act." He got a list of the members through spies and ran them down remorselessly.

The price of liberty, in the case of emancipated women, seems to be fat.

Hoover's Word To Congress Studied From Many Angles

Views On Economic Conditions Considered By Country As Outstanding Feature Of Message From White House

Comment on President Hoover's message as congress assembles gives evidence of general belief that he has devoted much study to the economic condition of the country. As to what the chief executive should do in the direction of improvement, there are wide differences of opinion. There is some praise of his advice, some criticism of his conclusions. The difficulties involved in covering a wide field in such a message are recognized.

"His matter of fact recital, conservative throughout and wholly non-committal with respect to some questions now under discussion," says the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE, "probably will disappoint those who have looked to Mr. Hoover for aggressive leadership in this economic emergency. But just as probably it will please those others who believe with him that economic depression cannot be cured by legislative action or executive pronouncement."

"He does not experience hysteria," avers the WILMINGTON DELMARVIA STAR, "because many cases of severe need are now distributed throughout a country healthy, wealthy and competent enough to come through a period of hard times, which is not to be compared with the castigations of fate recently survived by other lands." The SEATTLE DAILY TIMES lauds his "cool judgment," while the CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE believes his survey of the economic situation "probably will have the assent of disinterested opinion," and the MANCHESTER UNION finds that he "deals with practical problems in a practical way."

"One of the soundest and most progressive pronouncements from the White House in late years," is praised by the WHEELING INTELLIGENCER. The ALBANY EVENING NEWS declares: "It is a constructive and informative message with straightforward facts and recognition of the nation's immediate needs." The GRAND RAPIDS PRESS holds that "any citizen who reads it should feel sadder and more confident," while the MILWAUKEE SENTINEL advises that it is "a carefully considered, businesslike document, to which congress should pay close and respectful attention."

And the SIOUX FALLS ARGUS-LEADER is convinced that it "will be wisely approved in constructive quarters."

"Sound and homely philosophy akin to that of Benjamin Franklin" is pointed out by the PASADENA STAR-NEWS, with an expression of hope that "this general program of relief for economic depression and unemployment may be approved in congress and put into effect without delay." The MORGANTOWN DOMINION-NEWS calls the message "a bill of legislative particulars prepared for the most part in the typical Hoover style of terseness and clarity."

Praise for the encouragement the message offers the country is given by the HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH, the WORCESTER EVENING GAZETTE, the SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE, the SALT LAKE DESERET NEWS, the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS, the CINCINNATI ENQUIRER, the ANN ARBOR DAILY NEWS, the FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM, and the NEWARK EVENING NEWS.

"President Hoover makes no effort," according to the NEW YORK SUN, "to minimize the depression or to suggest that it may be ended by legislation. He attributes the temporary decline of American business to familiar causes; speculation, world-wide overproduction, political agitations and upsets in Asia and South America. Soviet export methods and our own drought." He believes that the "major forces of the depression" are now outside the United States and that recovery here has been retarded by unwarranted fears and apprehensions. He sees encouragement in the fact that our major financial and industrial institutions have weathered the storm and that the price levels of major commodities have been stable for some time."

Among the critics of the message is the ST. LOUIS TIMES, which states as to its content: "Giving undue emphasis to a business situation."

THE FREE MAN

It's no man's business what I say. And no man's business what I do. I have the right of choice by day. The right all pleasures to pursue. And whether I shall rise or fall Concerns my neighbor not at all.

Let others in their narrow views Find comfort if they will or can; A fuller freedom here I choose, I'll not be slave to any man. I'll roam the world; nor friend nor foe Shall point to me the way to go.

And so he did as he said said: Scorned laws, opinions, customs, creeds. Wandered wherever his fancies led. But lacking money for his needs This free man turned to those he'd spurned. And asked to share in what they'd earned.

Once snared within a dismal pit This free man feebly cried for aid; He who had loudly boasted, it was No man's business where he, started.

Thought in days of grief and doubt That every man should help him out. (Copyright, 1930, Edgar A. Guest)

Watch Your Imagination!

Imagination is a wonderful thing to have if it is not carried too far. None of the great inventions could have been discovered if they had not been worked out by men with sufficient imagination.

Of course you don't discover an invention, but discoveries are made that lead to inventions.

Novel ways to use common-place material come from persons of originality and high in imaginative powers.

Imagination denotes thinking. But there is morbid imagination that makes mountains out of mole hills and sees the results of accidents that never happen.

Be careful how you let your imagination run. Happy and cheerful one minute and down

Daily Digest

in an executive address to the congress on a state of the union."

The LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL said that "more or less of the same old story" was told in the MOINES TRIBUNE-CAPITOLIAN's judgment: "Packed as it was with sound recommendations for unemployment and drought relief and other needed legislation, nevertheless it was silent on other important measures bound to crop up in this session of congress."

The president which is read into his statement by the LITTLE ROCK ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT causes that paper to charge that it "will only serve to increase the pessimism among the millions employed as well as unemployed," and it continues: "Mr. Hoover minimizes unemployment in one breath and in another declares $150,000,000 should be appropriated to aid the jobless. He talks of prosperity being just around the corner yet says we must wait until the rest of the world recovers—though only a few weeks ago he declared we could return to good times without the world's help. He says business is only slightly below normal yet warns that income taxes cannot be reduced."

"In its attempt to mention briefly a vast variety of subjects, the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS of the customary present-day message, it tends to sketchiness. However, painstakingly it may have been prepared, any attempt to cover so much ground in so short a space must give an impression of superficiality. The reader turns from Mr. Hoover's annual message with a feeling that the president has conscientiously performed his duty, but that neither the constitution nor tradition require the average busy man to wade through it. This attitude is encouraged by the feeling that as to certain of the more acute problems, there will later be special messages, more to the point than an annual generalization."

"Opinions on the message," according to the SCHENECTADY GAZETTE, "will vary according to the viewpoint of the individual in each case. There will be a great many who will commend it for its avoidance of all controversial matters at this time, for its pointing out the unquestioned fact that economic depressions can not be cured by legislative fiat, and for its failure to seek to exert any leadership over congress. Contrariwise, there will be many who, while indorsing the avoidance of controversial discussion, believe the chief executive should endeavor to wield a greater influence in the framing and adoption of legislation. They will feel that a leadership congress in the past has aimlessly wandered through the wilderness, frequently acting counter to the best interests of the nation."

The ANNISTON STAR charges one important omission, and voices the conclusion: "While legislative action or executive pronouncement may not be altogether sufficient to relieve the economic distress of the country, President Hoover and the members of congress have it within their power to increase business activity and stimulate trade by removing one of the greatest obstacles to the return of prosperity. They can do this by taking down the tariff wall that the Republican administration has placed around us and opening the way for the return to normalcy."

The Central union of the W. C. T. U. met in the Y. W. C. A. Friday evening of last week for their regular monthly meeting and with Miss Edna Weld at the piano, Mrs. Jennie Porquer led the devotions with the Christmas story, the soft accompaniment of "Holy Night" adding impressiveness to the rendition.

Mrs. Edward Shields thanked the union for the part they took in aiding Lawrence county to first honors in the state and the union voted to join in the Lawrence county celebration January 16, 1937.

The soldiers and sailors department will make their donation to the home at Aspinwall at Easter time instead of the Christmas holiday, as done in former years.

There were reports made of 15 calls, 3 bouquets, 13 garments, 16 evangelistic meetings, 2 devotions led, 34 gospels, 1 Bible, 8 library books, 8 book marks, 2 magazines, 3 letters and $12.25 in cash.

Mrs. E. C. Beahm gave a most entertaining and instructive report of her visit to Houston, Texas, during the national W. C. T. U. convention.

Mrs. C. S. Hart gave a five minute talk on "Christian Citizenship" which was snappy and to the point.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Give Child, Four To Six, Toys He Can Manipulate

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D., Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Play furniture, housekeeping toys, dishes, play screens and play house, and material for improving them, trains, tools, erector and mecano sets, handwork materials and games with which groups can play indoors and out, are of value during this period. The danger is that toys such as airplanes and erector sets will be purchased by the proud parent long before the child is ready for them. Toys that must be assembled and manipulated by older members of the family are not good. They may do the child harm in schooling him to want others to amuse him. Be sure the child can handle the toy himself. The more opportunities it affords him to attract others of his age to share in its use, the better, of course.

From Four to Six: Roller skates, large velocipede, strong, large wagon, scooter-bike, ice skates, sled, paint and drawing sets, blocks for making designs, constructive sets, basketball and place outside to use it, baseball and glove, football.

A good work bench with ample supply of workable wood, and tools including vise, saw, coping saw, hammer, nails and wood screws, screw driver, gimlet, brace and bit, plane, drawing knife (some children will not be ready for most of these for several more years; they need guidance), materials and patterns for toys, and encouragement to create own plans and designs; scrap book, drawing book, fasteners for making cardboard furniture and toys. The child of eight or more may be able to use a soldering iron for making toys from tin containers. Never throw away magazines or containers of any kind where there are children above four or five.

Group games, like tiddley winks, flinch and other card games, dominoes, parchesi, pit, crokinole, karems, checkers, indoor or outdoor croquet, prove very attractive; also games which combine chance and skill. Flinch and dominoes, which can be enjoyed as early as five or six, are valuable in teaching number work. There is a growing array of games to be had aiding in learning the number combinations and facts in history, geography, literature and the like; also a typewriter, many sewing sets, and stamp book. A work room or corner is desirable for each child.

Group games afford opportunity for the parent and other members of the family to play, as well as for other children. Besides, the character value in sportsmanship encouraged by such games is invaluable.

Don't overlook good, well illustrated, artistic books for the school age child. Go to your librarian for guidance in selection. There are also some excellent children's magazines. For a child to have a magazine mailed to him is more interesting than to buy it from a newsstand, for he likes to receive mail.

A big difficulty in choosing toys for the child above five or six is in finding worthwhile, substantial toys to fit one's budget. As a rule, the older the child the more a suitable toy for him costs. Having developed a habit of getting a certain number at Christmas for a given child the temptation is to go on with the same number, buying many cheap things rather than a few which are costly. Whereas we may buy toys too hard for the child, we also may choose those too easy. If we do we keep him infantile.

Man Makes Demand For Money At Home

Screams Of Frightened Woman Of Home Causes Man To Make Hurried Exit

Early Saturday evening a rap was heard at the rear door of the home of Frank Bowers, 225 East Lincoln avenue, and Mrs. Bowers answered the call.

On opening the door, she saw a man, who immediately made a demand for some money.

She replied that she had no money and as the man made a move to come in, she screamed and hurried to the living room. He followed her to that place when she screams apparently frightened him away, as he left hurriedly.

The police were notified and Detective John Young and Officers Criswell and Moore hurried to the place. On learning the above facts they searched the entire district but were unable to locate the man.

The man had on a soft hat and gray overcoat.

Steak And Onions No Legal Defense

(International News Service)

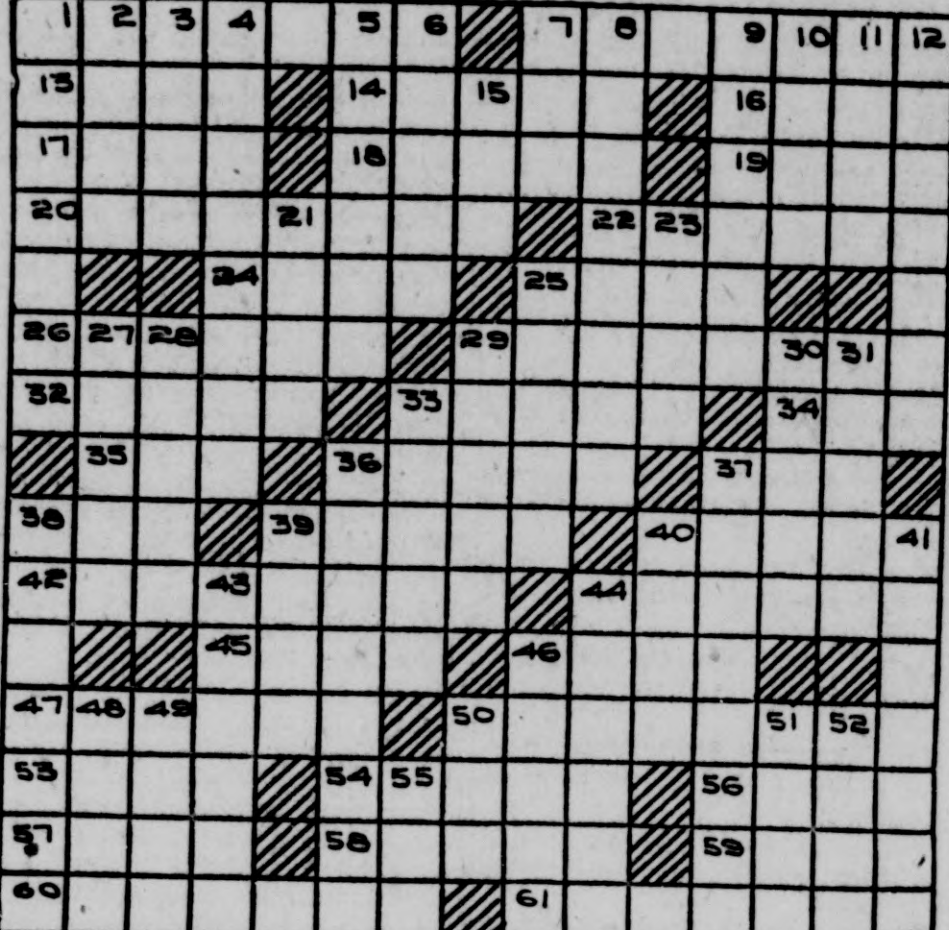

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—Steak and onions may be a toothsome viand—but it's a poor legal defense.

At least, it is for Dauphin county juries. Russell E. Kaylor, of Mt. Joy, who was arrested here for driving an automobile while intoxicated pleaded when arraigned here that he had eaten steak and onions and became violently ill.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty as charged.

Husbands are people who work themselves to death to keep up insurance to replace the salary they might have continued to earn if they hadn't.

Peter's Adventures

EXECUTIONER MAKES READY

They say all is fair in love or in war, but Peter didn't believe it. Nothing in the world could give the Redskins an excuse for acting as they were now. Peter shuddered, but fascinated, gazed at the scene.

Picked soldiers of the Red Ants forced the Black Ants to range themselves in a circle in an open space in front of the hill. A big Red Ant stepped into the center of the circle. Antennae thrown back, jaws open, she looked every bit the cruel insect that she was. A second warrior joined her and began giving orders.

"Executioner, do your duty!" she commanded. "The Black Ant Queens are a menace to our safety as long as they live. Off with their heads or we'll have a revolution on our claws!" This warrior pointed her antennae at the two large Black Ants.

"Step out, Queens! You are doomed to die, and you may as well get the unpleasant performance over with as soon as possible. I am sorry for you, but it would never do to show you mercy. You might upset all our best laid plans. But before you meet your fate have you anything to say?" The larger of the two Black Ants stepped a pace in front of the other.

"As oldest Queen in Black Ant Hill I speak for myself and my sister," she faltered. "I have done my duty and I am ready to go where you would send me. But I plead for my sister. She is young and life to her still is sweet. However, if you will not set her free, she would prefer to lose her head than to live on as your slave."

Mrs. Eva Failer Knocked To Street

Automobile Strikes Her As She Is Crossing North Mill Street

As Mrs. Eva Failer, 312 South Walnut street, was crossing North Mill street just north of East North street Saturday evening, going from the west to the east side of the street, she was struck and knocked to the ground by the truck of the Merchants Delivery service driven by Harry C. Hoon of 811 McCleary avenue, and enroute north.

Mr. Hoon and another man picked up Mrs. Failer and sought to take her to a physician, according to the report made to the police. She declined to go and was apparently unhurt at the time.

Owns Ring From Sutter's Nugget

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 15.—A ring, made from the original gold nugget found by General John A. Sutter when he made his world-famed "strike" on the Sacramento river in California in 1849, is one of the prize possessions of John Musselman, of Lancaster.

The ring was sent to Musselman's grandfather, John Musselman, who was a business partner of General Sutter when the latter lived here. It was worn by the present owner's grandmother and his been worn since by one member of each succeeding generation.

WHY OUR "FORM PRESSING" GIVES YOUR SUIT THAT "TAILORED" LOOK!

Proper and complete equipment is the answer—aided by experienced skill and painstaking ability to restore to the suit the same tailored lines that originally made the garment look as though it just "grew right on you".

In giving it back its original tailored lines we use... not just one press... but a whole battery of them... one for the shoulders, another for the collar, another for the body and so on... each one designed especially for its part in making the whole job perfect in appearance.

That's real pressing... the kind that helps you get the fullest value, both in wear and looks, from your suit. The kind that puts back the smart creases and tailored lines... and makes the suit HOLD its shape much longer.

Men's Suits Formpressed Only 50c

Right now we're busy cleaning and pressing suits and coats... and you should try our careful, thorough hat cleaning and blocking, too. Just phone 4185.

Mine Secretary Holdup Victim

Payroll Bandits Obtain $1,500 From Mine Secretary, As He Leaves Bank

HOLDUP OCCURS AT JESSUP, PA.

(International News Service)
JESSUP, Pa., Dec. 15.—Three youthful bandits, today held up Edward Loftus, secretary of the Humboldt Coal Company on the steps of the First National Bank here and escaped with the company's payroll of $1,500.

The payroll, officials of the company said, usually ran as high as $10,000 but because of curtailed mining operations requiring only a skeleton force, the sum was materially reduced.

The trio, riding in a Ford truck, waited across the street from the bank. As Loftus emerged, one of the youths walked across the street, a hand plunged into his coat pocket. Loftus, noticing the youth, reached for his gun but before he could get it out, the bandit said: "Don't pull that gun or I'll plug you. Give me that satchel."

Snatching the bag, he ran across the street, leaped onto the truck and the three sped away.

Brother Sees Holdup
Vincent Loftus, a brother of the coal company official, who was sitting in his automobile a short distance away, witnessed the holdup and set out in pursuit of the bandits.

He followed the trio as far as the village of Eynon. He telephoned to authorities here, where the truck skidded and overturned and the bandits leaped out and disappeared in the woods on foot.

State police and county detectives rushed to Eynon where they took up the trail of the bandits. The hills in that section were covered with heavy snow and troopers believed they would be able to track the trio easily.

This Is Third Week Of Sale

Send In Check For Tuberculosis Penny Seals As Soon As Possible

This is the third week of the sale of Christmas seals by the Lawrence County Tuberculosis society and checks are flowing daily into the headquarters on East street. However, there are thousands of local citizens who have not yet sent their contributions and it is hoped that they do so as soon as possible.

Although no definite check up has been made in the returns so far, it is believed by the executive secretary that they rank very good with the years before.

All checks should be made out to the Lawrence County Tuberculosis society. Quite a number of people have addressed their checks to the Red Cross. This is an entirely different organization.

In a short time booths will be arranged in convenient places downtown where shoppers may purchase the tuberculosis seals.

Variable Stars

By S. S. MYERS

"I was much interested in a recent article of yours published in the New Castle News in which you explained very clearly the different theories regarding those stars that blaze out suddenly where no star has ever been seen before. In that article you stated that such stars must not be confused with the so called variable stars which belong to an entirely different class. Will you please give us some information about variable stars?"

(J. F. L.)

There are many variable stars. Take for instance Mira, located in the constellation Cetus. Its variations have been observed for more than 300 years. It occupies 11 months passing through its various changes. Once in 11 months it rises to its maximum brightness, remains thus for about a week and then varies back to its former faintness. How may these variations be accounted for?

Well, if we could manage to get out in space beyond our solar system on a level with the plane of the orbit of the planets, we would see them passing between us and the sun. The minor planets would not obstruct much of the sun's light, except when in conjunction, yet it would cause it to vary somewhat. But when Jupiter and the other major planets would pass between us and the sun its light would be eclipsed considerably, especially if some of the larger planets should happen to pass between us and the sun at the same time. Hence, under such conditions our sun would appear as a variable star. On the same hypothesis we may account for the variability of Mira.

But there are different kinds of variables. For example, the star Algol, located in the constellation Perseus. It is usually a star of the second magnitude, but at regular intervals of two days, 20 hours and 48 minutes it drops to the fourth magnitude and remains faint for only 20 minutes. It then brightens again until it reaches its usual lustre. Its light is varying during nine hours and 45 minutes of each bright period. The periodical darkness is supposed to be a partial eclipse caused by a dark body revolving around a bright one. This is rendered practically certain by spectroscopic measurements which show that Algol alternately retreats from us and approaches us. In other words, it is revolving around in a circle. The dark companion is computed to be nearly as large as our sun; the main star has a diameter one-fifth greater, and the distance between them is only two million miles. Consequently they revolve around each other. Nearly a dozen variables which suffer eclipses like Algol are known.

Then there are others which, unlike Algol or Mira, are hopelessly irregular in their variations, just as our sun would appear to a distant observer with its planets, three or more in conjunction with the sun at irregular intervals.

Sirius, the Dog Star, now visible in the southeastern sky, just east of Orion, is known to have at least one planet, but its orbit is slightly tilted to our view, hence it does not pass between us and Sirius and the latter does not appear to us as a variable star.

No doubt many of the suns in space have planetary systems which support intelligent life. It seems to me it would be the height of human presumption to assume that of all the millions of suns in space ours is the only one attended by planets and that our little earth possesses all the intelligence in the universe. Such a narrow view would place a limit upon the wisdom and power of the Creator.

Community Trees Are Being Erected

Prizes To Be Awarded For Best Holiday Exterior Lighting

Residents in various sections of the city are speeding plans for Christmas light decorations and according to announcement today three prizes will be given by the Women's club for the three best decorated homes. Plans are also under way for the erection of various trees and as usual a Community tree will be placed on the Public Square.

The prizes for the best illuminated homes follow:

First prize, duplex floor lamp.

Second prize, duplex table light.

Third prize, light-o-liner desk lamp.

Mrs. S. H. Rhodes, chairman of the Women's club committee has named Mrs. Forrest Thompson, Lincoln avenue, as chairman of the judging committee. Persons who desire to enter the contest should send their names and addresses to the chairman of commerce.

Councilman Stanley Treser has notified the committee that he will have erected on Public Square a Community Christmas tree.

Superintendent William H. Kleckner of the Lehigh Portland Cement company has donated a tree, it was stated, which has been erected at Butler avenue and East Washington street.

The Carnegie Steel company has already placed its tree at the Carnegie playgrounds and the Pennsylvania railroad will have a tree erected at the west side station.

Plans are under way by Mrs. Frank Reynolds which will result in a tree again being placed at Fairmont and Highland avenues and the Parents-Teachers association will have a tree on the Oak street school grounds.

According to the plans of the decoration committee the object of the Christmas lighting movement is to have a Christmas light every place so the message of the season can be carried to those who pass.

Coal Sales Firm Protests Rates

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Co., today filed a complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission against the Baltimore & Ohio, Reading and Lehigh Valley Railroads involving freight rates on anthracite.

The complaint charged that the three roads have failed to establish a joint rate for the transportation of anthracite from points of origin in the Lehigh and Wyoming districts to points of destination in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. The roads have joint rates for part of the haul but the failure to establish such rates for the full distance has the effect of increasing the freight rate, the complaint charged.

State Police System Observing Birthday

Twenty-Five Years Ago To-day State Police Of Pennsylvania Become Organized

Only Five Left Of Original Group That Was Sworn In December 15, 1905

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—Pennsylvania's State Police force, 25 years old today, went about its business as usual with no celebration to mark the anniversary.

Five of the original members of the force, four of whom are in Harrisburg, announced, however, that they may "get together for a sort of reunion."

The five original members of the force are: Maj. Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the force; Maj. C. M. Wilhelm, deputy superintendent; Capt. W. C. Price, superintendent of the State Motor patrol; Capt. Paul B. Stout, head of Troop E, Harrisburg; and Capt. William Clark of Troop B, at Wyoming.

The force was created by the Legislature May 2, 1905, but the members were not sworn in until Dec. 15, 1905 when four troops, each comprising a captain, lieutenant, five sergeants and 50 privates, were sworn into the service.

Today, the organization consists of five troops of 81 men each, with 16 men in the Capitol headquarters and 20 in the Bureau of Identification. Its activities and services have increased from the point of 800 arrests and 583 convictions were made in its first year of existence to May 31, 1930, when Maj. Adams reported 12,420 arrests during the fiscal year ending at that time.

WHY HE OPPOSES
DAIX'S ELECTION

wealth. If I am not bound to do everything I can to keep the Philadelphia gang out of control of the state government, then no one was ever bound to anything by the result of any campaign."

The governor-elect's letter was made public at his headquarters here. It follows:

December 15, 1930.
"Mr. Honorable George T. Wein-gartner,
"New Castle, Pa.
"My Dear Senator:

"You have asked me to put in writing the reasons why Senator Daix should not be elected president pro-tempore of the Pennsylvania

Senate for the coming session. I am very glad indeed to do so.

"I have nothing to say against Senator Daix personally, and I shall not dwell upon the condition of his health, which I regret, but which makes it probable that he could not fully perform the duties of the office."

"I find three, and only three, arguments alleged why certain senators propose to support him. One is a personal liking for him. That reason might be valid if the welfare of Pennsylvania were not at stake. In the present great issue it has no place whatever."

"Another argument is that senatorial precedent now requires the election of Senator Daix because he was elected president pro-tempore for the recess of the Senate. But after that election took place Senator Daix and the machine to which he belongs bolted the Republican ticket. By that action Senator Daix himself disregarded precedent and made himself ineligible for the highest honor that can be bestowed by a Republican Senate."

"The Philadelphia machine has always claimed special consideration in the legislature because of its regularity. It has now thrown its regularity overboard. The Senate precedent on longer applies to Senator Daix's case. He is himself directly responsible for the fact that every consideration of party loyalty requires his defeat."

"The third argument advanced for Senator Daix is that I am exceeding my proper sphere in urging the defeat of a Philadelphia bolter by the overwhelming majority of the Senate."

"Upon this matter the people have spoken in unmistakable terms. One of the main issues upon which I was elected was opposition to the Philadelphia gang. The people of Pennsylvania, outside of Philadelphia voted by the huge majority of over 300,000 against putting the Philadelphia machine in control of the commonwealth. If I am not bound to do everything I can to keep the Philadelphia gang out of control of the state government, then no one was ever bound to anything by the result of any campaign."

The president pro-tempore appoints all Senate committees and he refers to committees of his choice all bills while he is presiding in the absence of the lieutenant-governor, and he can call to the chair any member of the Senate he pleases. His is the most influential position in the Senate."

"General Shannon has been desperately sick. I am delighted to know he is recovering, but if neither he nor Senator Daix should be in a position to undergo the severe strain involved in handling the work of the Senate, the public business would be seriously handicapped."

"It is not to be forgotten, also, that the president pro-tempore is second in line for the governorship of Pennsylvania. If the lieutenant-governor and the governor should for any reason be incapacitated and unable to serve, the president pro-tempore becomes governor."

"If this should happen, and Senator Daix were at the time president pro-tempore, the Philadelphia gang would have achieved its purpose of controlling the commonwealth through the governorship."

"The arguments for Senator Daix are not worthy to be considered as against the danger to the commonwealth of handing over to the defeated Philadelphia machine the fruits of victory. When it bolted the Republican ticket it forfeited all claim to put one of its members into the highly important position of president pro-tempore."

"Finally, and most important of all, the overwhelming majority of the voters outside of Philadelphia are against putting the Philadelphia machine in a position of power at Harrisburg."

"Sincerely yours,
(Signed) "GIFFORD PINCHOT."

Dr. Coleman At Rotary Session

Geneva Instructor Speaks At Noon-Hour Meeting Of Rotarians

Showing in a scholarly fashion the things that Germany is doing to "establish a market for its products and avoid governmental bankruptcy," Dr. John Coleman, head of Geneva college's department of history, in his address before the local Rotary club today, discussed "Germany's Present Economic Condition."

Dr. Coleman paid a fine tribute to President Von Hindenburg, whom he termed as one of the greatest leaders in all Europe. Under his determined and able leadership the German people should find it possible to meet their reparations debts and the other national obligations, he believes.

The speaker pictured, step by step, the desperate attempts that Germany is now making to better its economic fabric, to establish its international trade policies on a sounder basis.

During the course of the address, it was pointed out that the German republic's capital only amounts to fifty-five billions of dollars while the income of the United States yearly totals ninety billions.

Dr. Coleman also touched upon the pension plan that Germany has, and the unemployment situation existing and the measures being advanced to meet it.

Dr. Moore Rounds Out 50 Years As Gospel Minister

Former New Castle Pastor
Eulogized By Eustis Lake,
Florida, Paper

Dr. Samuel H. Moore, a former pastor of the New Castle Central Presbyterian church, who is now pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Eustis Lake, Florida, has just rounded out fifty years as a minister.

Rev. Moore has made frequent visits to New Castle since his pastorate ended here, and his many friends will be interested in an editorial from the Eustis Lake, Florida, newspaper, which says:

"Dr. Sam H. Moore, beloved pastor of the First Presbyterian church, has reason to be proud of his record as a minister of the gospel. For a little more than fifty years he has labored in the vineyard and he must have a feeling of enjoyment as he looks back over those fifty years and recounts the souls of men he has helped on to a better life; the words of comfort he has been able to give to those in sorrow and in trouble."

There is no greater labor on earth than that of the true minister of the gospel and Dr. Sam Moore is certainly of that lovable true Christian type.

It is not only our wish but that of many friends that he be spared for many more years of consecrated Christian service, such as he has rendered during the past fifty years.

Would Bar Children From Court Trials

(International News Service)

HOUSTON, Texas, Dec. 15.—Children would be prevented from hearing the sordid details of court trials if the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs has its way.

The federation passed a resolution deploring "the fact that children of all ages are now permitted to be present at murder, assault, divorce and other trials where intimate or vulgar details are introduced into the evidence."

"We believe" the resolution stated "that a degrading influence thereby defiles the purity of the American home."

There is no illness so oppressive as an imperfectly functioning stomach—perhaps not serious enough in many cases to be confining, and severe enough to prevent the full enjoyment of every day life and the pleasure of performing the daily duties. To those persons who have habitual or occasional stomach trouble, such as gastric hyperacidity, sour stomach, gas disturbances, bloating, belching, heartburn, indigestion, loss of appetite, we unhesitatingly say "Fruiter's Tablets." To our personal knowledge, this remedy has relieved and corrected hundreds of such cases of stomach trouble, many of which were of a "bad standing nature." Food Giving An Acid Ash Neutralized

Dr. Clendening Cites Article
Pronouncing 'Acidosis'
Fallacy

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"The ordinary diet consisting of meats, eggs and cereals, including bread, produces an acid ash. If the diet contains in addition a moderate amount of milk, potato, vegetables and fruits, the acid elements are neutralized. The term acidosis has become a popular fancy. The belief that acid ash foods are responsible for a variety of common symptoms such as stomach hyperacidity, lassitude, biliousness, acid mouth, headaches, nephritis and high blood pressure carries one far afield. These symptoms and others of similar character are as frequently encountered among patients whose urines are neutral or alkaline. Among those who drink little water concentration of the urine with increase of acidity is common."

The above quotation is taken from a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Copper in the Food

Apparently we need some copper in our diet. Hart and his associates at the University of Wisconsin have shown that if there is a deficiency of copper in our food there is a lack of assimilation of iron. And iron is needed for the blood. Lack of copper may, therefore, cause anemia. However, do not go out and chew up a piece of copper wire as soon as you hear this. You can easily get too much. There is plenty of copper in the foods you ordinarily eat. Wheat germ, and therefore white bread, has the most. Almonds, oats, kidney beans, peas, asparagus, maize, lentils and barley all have good quantities.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS:
I. H. V., Indianapolis: "Please give the name of a good book on calories for the layman."

Answer: What seems to me one of the most useful books on diet for the layman is "Feeding the Family," by Mary Swartz Rose. It is published by the MacMillan company, New York. It is not only thoroughly reliable as to its facts; it also meets practically all needs. Some of the chapter headings are: "Food for the Adult Man", "Food for the Adult Woman", "Food for the Baby", "Food for a Two-Year-Old Child", "Food for Children of 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, etc., Years of Age", "Food After Fifty", "Food for the Sick and Convalescent". There are complete food tables, and tables of the vitamin content of foods. The economic factor is given attention and there are many hints about cooking and serving the best meals at the least cost.

A smaller book with a more limited scope, dealing, as its title implies, only with diet in diseased conditions, is called "Food for the Sick," by Dr. Solomon Strouse. It is published by W. B. Saunders company, Philadelphia.

RABBITS ARE RELEASED HERE

Game Protector Coen Is Releasing Last Of Shipment
900 Rabbits

The last shipment of a quota of 900 rabbits arrived in New Castle last week and are being released in this county by Lawrence County Game Protector Frank Coen. The bunnies will roam the woods at leisure until the 1931 small game hunting season.

Game Protector Coen began the liberation of the rabbits immediately upon receiving the first shipment on Thursday of last week. Another shipment arrived on Friday and the final number came Saturday.

The game protector, with several members of the county sportsman's association, have released about 50 of the rabbits in each of the 17 townships of the county. The rabbits came from Syracuse, Missouri. Ninety-eight per cent of the shipment was in good condition, according to Game Protector Coen, just the two per cent was lost.

Quail Resting At Game Farm

Shipment Of 100 Hungarian
Quail Will Be Released
In Several Weeks

Until the 100 Hungarian quail get acclimated, they will stay at the Jordan State Game Farm, according to Lawrence County Game Protector Frank Coen.

The quail were recently received here to be released in the county so that they may breed for next year's hunting season.

They were shipped from Europe and arrived in New Castle in fine shape, according to Coen. They will be kept at the game farm until they get used to the country and until they get strong enough to take care of themselves out in the woods of the county. This will be in several weeks.

Revoke License Of New Castle Driver

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15. — The Bureau of Motor Vehicles, State Highway Department, revoked the automobile driver's license of Elmer P. Taylor, 8 Katherine street, New Castle. It was announced at the State Capitol today. The bureau revoked the driver's licenses of 87 persons, suspended those of 42 and restored the driving privilege to 46 others during the week ended December 11.

ROAD TO PARADISE
TALKING COMEDY — SOUND NEWS

Bo Broadway

By Central Press
NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Somebody was telling me the other day about a woman—one of the sisterhood fighting under the Milk White Flag of the Sanctified Thirst—who came upon an unopened bottle of hooch while unpacking her husband's bags for a week end camp.

"What does this mean?" she inquired sternly.
"Oh, that's all right," replied George with perfect savoir faire, which means ability to lie at a moment's notice. "I brought that along to stick a candle in, when it's empty."

"GEOGRAPHICALLY DIFFERENT"
The editor of an evening newspaper in Tammany Town has inaugurated a series: "What Is a Lady?" and each night enraptures his readers with the engaging replies of certain female celebrities—one a night—whose attempts at clever delineation creak like a dress shirt front on a hired man.

Emily Post descended for the Penn Holders recently. She frankly admitted—"I don't think I know what a lady is."

I suppose the thought was that because Emily has written a lot about "Etiquette" she naturally qualified as an authority. Over on Park Avenue, knowing which fork to use may stamp a woman as a "lady." But down among the philosophers on Gramercy Park, it's different.

BUT AFTER ALL
After admitting that she didn't think she knew what a lady is—that is, after confessing that she was not qualified to discuss the question—she followed the modern procedure and at once launched into a verbose delineation.

"A lady," quoth Emily, is a creature of unshatterable poise. She will not budge an inch from her traditions and her manners are as much a part of her as her fingers or her nose."

As Elbert Hubbard used to say: "And, brethren, the Eleventh Commandment is as follows: Thou shalt not take thyself too damn seriously."

HONESTY'S REWARD
A delivery boy in Tammany Town who kicks in his eighteen bucks a week to help support his ten brothers and sisters found a gem-crusted bracelet in the gutter the other day and turned it over to the police. Two months before that he returned a lost pocketbook to a woman who merely said "Thanks!" and closed the door.

We'll never be able to term any community honest, until stories such as this cease to be "news."

COMPLICATED FOR HIM
Brother Einstein, the scientist, invading these hospitable shores finds great annoyance in the exactions of everyday existence. For example: His wife insists that he use shaving soap and he demurs.

"Please no," he says. "Why should I complicate my life by having a soap for my hands and another for my face? One soap is plenty."

Shaving soap makes his life too complicated! And that's the man whose theory of light and space is so darned abstruse that only two men ever understood it—and the other one is dead.

John Emerson, head of Something or Other, but better known as the husband of Anita Loos, was paddling into the Play-house a night or two ago when a dignified gent approached him and said: "Are you Flo Ziegfeld?"

John must have his little joke. They all joke in John's and Anita's set.
"Yes," he replied, "I am."
"Then here's a summons," replied the dignified gent.
And John had to haul his freight down to court several days thereafter.

The moral of this is: "Never get gay with a process server."

Tammany Town is the only city of any consequence in the country that really "fell" for the miniature golf craze.

I heard of a course outside of Hollywood that carried a sign on the boarded entrance: "Opened by mistake."

Rosamond Korndyke Pet,
Champion Bred By Penn-

500 Pounds

TROY, Pa., Dec. 15. — Rosamond Korndyke Pet, the new national butterfat champion among Holstein cows on three-times milking has returned nearly four times as much milk and five times as much profit as the average cow, according to the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Chicago, Ill.

Rosamond, winner of three records, was bred by James O. Cowl, Troy, and was the fifth Holstein bred in Pennsylvania to exceed 1,000 pounds of butterfat in a year.

The new three-time Holstein champion was larger than the average and weighed 1,500 pounds. Her new yearly record, which averaged 27 pounds or 12 quarts of milk and nearly one pound of fat per milking, replaced that made two years ago by Burke Frysiam Waldorf, Davenport, Iowa.

Deer Shows No Fear
As Hunter Is Near

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 15.—When H. J. Borland goes deer hunting again he probably will remember that old adage, "All things come to those who wait," can be applied to hunting.

A half hour after the opening of the hunting season, Borland shot a four point buck.

Shortly afterward, a large 12-point buck strolled into the camp and watched Borland dress the animal he had just shot.

The second deer, seemingly aware that the game laws limit one deer to a hunter, showed no fear and leisurely watched Borland prepare the carcass of the smaller animal.

The scientist is just a reporter, slowly revealing ancient news.—The Rutland Herald.

Hanukkah Feast Begins Holiday

Special Program At Beth Shalom Center On
Boyles Avenue

As a fitting beginning of the celebration of Hanukkah the congregation of Beth Shalom gathered in their center on Boyles avenue Sunday evening in a congregational dinner with covers arranged for 75.

Mrs. Charles Levine was general chairman of arrangements and had the tables laid in U form, centered with white chrysanthemums and potted plants with tall blue tapers tied with white mauline lighted at intervals down the long tables, bringing the significance of the holiday to the minds of the diners. Small blue candles tied with silver expressing "Hanukkah Greetings" marked each place. A delicious menu was served by the members of the Beth Shalom Sisterhood.

A welcome was given the congregation and friends by Mrs. L. Sandler, president of the Sisterhood, after which the assembly sang "America". Rabbi Samuel Zakuto performed the ceremony of lighting the first Hanukkah candle while the congregation sang the Hanukkah song, "Rock of Ages."

Miss F. Weinberg, accompanied by Dorothy Fisher, sang some beautiful numbers before and after the dinner and during the dinner several orchestral numbers were given with Dorothy Fisher, June Frank, Joshua Kaplan, Arthur Kohn and Merle Fisher forming the orchestra. Mrs. E. Kaplan was the accompanist for Miss Weinberg and the songs by the congregation.

At the conclusion of the dinner, L. Sandler, president of the board of the congregation, acted as toastmaster for the after dinner speaking. Mr. Sandler gave a brief resume of the progress made by the Beth Shalom congregation since their reorganization and then introduced L. Kohn, vice president of the board, who told of the splendid Hebrew school and Sunday school that is conducted by Beth Shalom and urged the parents to send their children in order that they might be taught the customs, traditions and religion of Judaism. He impressed upon the parents the necessity of interesting the children in studying the history of their people and keeping alive the ancient religion.

Louis Miller, the secretary, then gave a few remarks as to his work in the congregation and urged the cooperation of the entire membership. Morris Herskovitz, the financial secretary, addressed a few words to the assembly, followed by H. Kivans, treasurer.

Samuel Edelstein and Dr. Eliah Kaplan then made a few remarks after which Mr. Sandler called on the rabbi, S. Zakuto, for an address to the assembled members and friends.

Rabbi Zakuto in an enthusiastic inspirational manner gave the congregation a history of the origin of the Hanukkah holiday, mentioning it as the only celebration of a military victory in the calendar of Jewish holidays, but in addition to this he added that it also commemorated the triumph of Judaism over paganism. He thanked the congregation for the cooperation he has received since being pastor of their small flock and gave the hope that great progress would be accomplished in the coming year.

At the close of the rabbi's address Miss Weinberg again gave a beautiful vocal number and the congregation sang Ha-Tikva as the closing number. Mrs. L. Kohn was in charge of the program arrangements.

A social period followed the dinner, the congregation mingling in an air of good fellowship and camaraderie.

For Distribution Of Toys
To Children

Members of the Christmas Toy Committee, headed by Ralph H. Montgomery chairman, will complete arrangements for the distribution of these articles at the meeting to be held Wednesday evening.

A great number of toys have been received by the committee. Mr. Montgomery states, most of which are in very good condition, and will gladden the hearts of many kiddies, who would not otherwise be remembered at Christmas time.

Several other important matters will be discussed at this meeting and Commander John Stoner requests a full attendance of all the members of the post at this meeting.

Girl Potato Champ Varies Activity

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 15.—Miss Mary C. Werner of Bath, Northampton county, has diversified her agriculture, according to J. F. Keim, assistant state club leader of the Pennsylvania State College.

Mary won the grand championship on her peck of potatoes exhibited at the State Farm Products Show in Harrisburg last January. She was then 13 years old. Having won a place in the sun as a potato grower, Mary decided to try her hand at producing pork. Her club sow farrowed eight pigs which grew bigger and waxed fatter until, when they were 180 days old, they tipped the scales at 208 pounds. Now she is qualified for membership in the famous Keystone Ton Litter Club, and two of the Chester White gilts are consigned to the Pennsylvania Farm Show next month.

Two others 4-H club members also have qualified for the Ton Litter Club, Keim says. Ard Hosack, of Scenery Hill, Washington county, a member of the National Road pig breeding club, has raised 11 pigs which weighed 2325 pounds at six months of age. A fellow club member, John Wilson, produced 2000 pounds of pork in 180 days with his litter.

Three Local Cases Before Pardon Board

One Of Cases Is That Of Robber In Local Jewelry Store

(From the News Bureau)
State Capital

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—Three cases originating from the Lawrence county courts will be heard before the Pardon Board at its sessions here this week. This is the last meeting of the present board for no sessions are scheduled for January.

The first Lawrence case on the list is John G. Malinowski, 33, sentenced in January 1929 to serve from three to six years for breaking and entering. He was arrested for robbing the Norman Jewelry Store in New Castle.

Malinowski denies the charge. The robbery occurred on a Sunday morning August 12, 1928. He claims he was drunk in Youngstown, Ohio, and went riding with several companions who he blames for the robbery.

Charles Smith, 26, sentenced in June of this year to serve from five to ten years for a statutory offense is asking his pardon. His wife and two children live in New Castle. He worked in the American Sheet and Tin Plate plant.

The offense for which he was convicted happened late last March. The night of the alleged attack Smith says he finished work in the mill and returned to his home in Enon Valley. He was arrested on the information of Josephine Liodovick. He claims he was not in New Castle at the time of the offense.

A third petitioner is Harry Macconey sentenced December 1922 to serve from two to three years for felonious assault and battery. He was out on parole for a second degree murder charge for which he had served seven years.

December 15, 1930.

Gives Ruling On Township Expense

Auditor-General Cannot Approve Expense Of Commission Members

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—The auditor-general and state treasurer may not lawfully approve payment of expenses for members of the township law revision commission's attendance at either the convention of 2nd class township supervisors, in February, 1931, nor for appearing before the legislature to explain the bills or advocate their passage. Attorney General William A. Schnader notified W. H. Whittaker, Upper Darby, secretary of the commission, in a written opinion.

The attorney general's opinion held that it was the duty of the commission to report to the legislature not later than Feb. 1 next, but that it was not its duty to appear before the legislature or before a township supervisors' convention.

Says Pennsylvania Would Vote "Dry"

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Gifford Pinchot, governor-elect of Pennsylvania, here to attend the winter banquet of the Gridiron club, Saturday told reporters today Pennsylvania would vote dry if a "clear cut" wet and dry referendum were placed before the voters. He said he believed the voters would do this despite the fact "Pennsylvania is not the driest state in the union."

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agents for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Projected Law Would Reduce Working Hours

Every Postal Employee Would Be Placed On 44-Hour
Week

(Special To The News.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 15.—Every mail clerk and letter carrier connected with the United States postoffice of New Castle will be entitled to a 44-hour rather than a 48-hour week if the Kendall bill passed by the house is approved by the senate and the president.

Representative Samuel Kendall of Pennsylvania, author of the measure, states that the provisions of his bill will apply to every first and second class postoffice in the country and that it will directly benefit mail clerks and letter carriers of New Castle. He points out that the measure was passed by the house without objection and says he is confident it will find equally smooth sailing in the senate.

The Kendall bill states that clerks, letter carriers and railroad mail clerks shall work only 44 hours a week instead of the 48 now required. It does not propose, however, to close postoffices on Saturday afternoons. It provides that substitutes shall be employed to maintain the schedules now in effect at the various postoffices.

Briefly, the effect of the Kendall bill insofar as the postoffice and postal workers of New Castle are concerned, would be this: The clerks and carriers would work only 44 hours a week; the postoffices would be kept open as usual; as many substitutes as would be needed to maintain the present schedule at the postoffice would be employed. Such is the information coming from Mr. Kendall and the Federation of Post Office Clerks.

(International News Service)
GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 15.—The guest of Richard K. Mellon, Gene Tunney, world's retired heavyweight champion, today was invited to don hunter's togs and participate in the last day of the Pennsylvania deer season.

Tunney arrived here Saturday in a party of twelve invited to participate at the Rolling Rock country club fox-hunt Saturday. The champion enjoyed his "run with the hounds" and remained for the deer shooting today.

The Rolling Rock preserves are well stocked with game, and hundreds of deer have sought shelter within its high enclosure.

Predictions here are that postmen will be trudging in relays to Falvo's home soon.

How may an amendment to the United States Constitution be repealed?

An amendment to the Constitution may be repealed through the action of two-thirds of both houses of congress, or on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the states congress may call a convention for the purpose, which in either case shall be valid when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states or by convention in three-fourths thereof.

What is the smallest state in the union and what is its area as compared with that of Texas?

The smallest state in the union is Rhode Island with a total of 1,248 square miles. Texas, the largest state in the union, has a total area of 267,893 square miles.

Where did the saying, "Murder will out," originate? Did it come from Chaucer's Canterbury Tales?

The saying "Murder will out" is believed to have originated in the Talmud, the comprehensive compilation of laws and ceremonial regulations pertaining to rabbinical Judaism. The quotation is "when the wine is in, murder will out." It does appear also in Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, specifically in "The Nonnes Preestes Tale," line 15,068, the quotation being "Mordre wol out, that se we day by day."

Did Notre Dame ever defeat Drake university by a score of 3-0 and is there any reason why Notre Dame cannot enter the Big Ten?

Notre Dame defeated Drake in football 3-0 on Nov. 19, 1927. There is no reason why Notre Dame cannot join the Western conference save that, as far as the records show, the conference has never invited Notre Dame to enter, nor has Notre Dame applied for admission. Notre Dame follows Western conference rules closely.

Find Still Only Purifying Water

(International News Service)
ALLENTOWN, Pa., Dec. 15.—Armed with a search warrant, pistols and plenty of courage, three prohibition agents stealthily approached a building on a mountain south of Macungie, where a still smoked merrily away.

Two of the agents stood guard. The third, automatic in hand, strode up to the door, rapped.

Roy Miller answered and was faced with a search warrant.

"Sure, we got a still here," he told the agents. "Go ahead and search."

They did, and found the still producing distilled water for battery and garage use.

BREAKS UP A COLD IN A JIFFY

Feel Like a New Person
Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

Thirty-Three Win Rhodes Scholarship Awards In Country

Two Pennsylvania College Boys
Among Number Winning
Fine Award

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—Thirty-three students in all from the 529 applicants in various sections of the United States were successful in their efforts to win the prized Rhodes scholarship this year according to the list made public today by Dr. Frank Aydelotte, of Swarthmore, American secretary of the Rhodes trustees.

The scholarships provides $2000 annually for three years with the stipulation the first two years must be spent at Oxford and the remaining year at any foreign college.

Two Pennsylvania college students were chosen, namely William T. Jones, of Swarthmore and Dudley Lee Harley, a graduate of Lehigh University, Jones' home is at Natchez, Miss., while Harley is a native of West Virginia but now lives at Cambridge Mass.

The U. S. Military Academy with three successful candidates has the largest representation and Harvard and Princeton next with two each.

Baldwin Bible Class Active In Charity

At the business meeting held prior to the Sabbath school lesson Sunday morning the members of the Baldwin Bible class heard a report of the activities of the class along charitable lines from Mrs. Henry Jackson, chairman of the committee appointed to look after this work.

Mrs. Jackson reported that many homes had been visited, shoes had been bought for children at the Lincoln and Garfield school, milk had been provided for undernourished children and aid given in various ways to those needing it. The committee put in a busy week and has more work planned for the coming week, but states that the situation in the city is being capably handled through the mayor's relief committee and the various other organizations in charge.

Poincare Under Physicians Care

Former Premier Of France, Suffers Breakdown, Result Of Cabinet Crisis

DOCTORS INSIST NOTHING SERIOUS

(International News Service) PARIS, Dec. 15.—Exhausted by overwork in France's recent cabinet crisis, former Premier Raymond Poincare was under the care of his physicians at his home here today.

Although insisting his illness was not serious, his doctors issued a bulletin this afternoon stating that his "weakness continues." The bulletin indicated he had taken a turn for the worse, for earlier in the day it was said his illness was not sufficiently serious to warrant issuance of a bulletin.

Because of the rush of visitors to see the stricken statesman, a register book was provided. Albert Sarraut, former Minister of the Interior, who was the first to sign his name, told International News Service he believed Poincare's illness was not serious, but that he was "extremely fatigued as a result of the cabinet crisis."

TWO ARRESTED FOR ROBBERIES

Hickory High School Student Is One Of Pair Held For Theft

(International News Service) MERCER, Pa., Dec. 15.—Joseph Gonbeck, 36, Farrell barber, and Virgil Gibson, 17, student at Hickory High school, were being held in the Mercer county jail here today in default of $1,000 bail each in connection with larceny charges preferred by State Police.

Gonbeck was alleged to have taken $127.50 and two $100 Polish government bonds from the safe of the Polish Home Society in Farrell last December 3. He was believed to have been a former officer of the club. After returning the bonds to the officers of the club state police charged Gonbeck asked permission to pay back the money in installments ranging over a six-month period.

Gibson, identified by a glass eye, was charged with having taken $12 and four boxes of candy in a high school robbery last December 11. After the alleged robbery he was said to have stopped at a Barbecue stand and asked for a bag in which to place the loot.

A woman attendant at the stand, remembering his infirmity, later identified him.

The boy's home is near New Castle, he told police.

Greer Shows How Tax Payers Dollar Is Spent

How the tax dollar is collected, and how it is spent were explained to the members of the Council of Republican Women Saturday afternoon in the Castle when the organization met in the lounge room and heard an address by City Controller Phil G. Greer.

For his address Mr. Greer had gone to considerable pains in compiling figures, dividing totals as to percentages, and had then prepared a series of charts. These charts were made to represent a huge dollar, which he labeled the Taxpayers Dollar, and each dollar was sub-divided showing the proportions chargeable to various departments of city and school government.

School Tax Dollar. The school tax dollar, insofar as it concerns the taxpayers of New Castle in income, is not quite an 85 cent dollar. The total school budget represents $1,117,670.95. Of this the state of Pennsylvania contributes $140,000 in school subsidies which is 12.8 per cent of the total. The taxpayers pay 84.3 per cent, with 2.9 percent coming from rentals and miscellaneous income.

In discussing the spending of the tax dollar, Mr. Greer deducted the $140,000 from the expense of instruction, and then showed what percentage was spent for the various departments. Of the taxpayers school dollar, 3.9 cents goes for general control, or administration expenses. The expense of instruction, which is the salaries of teachers, 58.9 cents is spent. In other words, out of every dollar a New Castle taxpayer puts out for schools, 58.9 cents goes to the teachers.

Auxiliary agencies, such as the medical and dental departments, nursing, and capital outlays for furniture, 2.1 cents is paid. For the operation of the school plant 11 cents of the dollar is paid. Under operation comes janitor service, fuel, water, light, etc. The maintenance expense of the schools takes 4.4 cents, while fixed charges such as rents, insurance and the like take 3.8 cents. Debt service which is for the redemption of bonds and the payment of interest on bonds takes 15.9 cents. One cent is left as an unused balance. This dollar represents $960,949.72 of expenditures, and to this should be added the $140,000 state subsidy which is spent.

City Tax Dollar. The city tax dollar, that is the money spent for the upkeep of the city, exclusive of schools, was shown in the amounts spent on the city alone. This does not represent the sinking fund and the library. The total receipts from taxes in 1929 show $599,737.94 received for general revenue, $114,367.24 for the Sinking Fund and $27,856.57 for the Free Public Library. General Revenue is the city operating fund and Mr. Greer showed this as the tax dollar.

Of this dollar the department of public affairs which is the police department and the mayor's office, 16.2 cents is spent. The department of accounts and finance spends four cents. The department of public safety which is the fire, health and electrical department spends 34.6 cents. The department of parks and playgrounds and the sewage disposal plant spend 10.3 cents. The department of streets spends 31.5 cents. Miscellaneous which includes gasoline for city trucks and incidental expenses, spends 3.4 cents.

Mr. Greer's address, while dealing with dry figures was presented in such an interesting fashion that the women were delighted with it. He gave them a closeup picture of how the tax dollar is received and how it is spent, where it goes, and the work necessary to the collection and dispensing it.

The charts he has prepared have been saved and will likely be exhibited in public at some future date. Mrs. Carl S. Hart, president of the Council of Republican Women presided at the meeting.

Reeves To Wait For Legislative Action On Labels

Suggests That All Alcohol Sold Be Marked As "Poison"

It is not probable that Councilman Reeves will ask colleagues to pass an ordinance making persons handling wood alcohol to label it "Poison" following advice presented by City Solicitor Robert White. When council convened Reeves explained he had an ordinance prepared which would call for labeling. Solicitor White said that in his opinion "this is a matter for the state legislature."

"It is a highly technical subject and I know there is a concentrated effort being made throughout the nation to stop the sale of wood alcohol but it seems to me" said White "that it is a matter for the state legislature. They will handle it when they convene. We are not in a position to handle it."

It developed that some persons are drinking wood alcohol which is put in some auto radiators.

"I brought this matter up as a protective measure" said Reeves. "Let us wait until the state legislature takes action" suggested Genkinger.

"People who drink this know it is poisonous," said White. Councilman Reeves apparently was satisfied and the bill was not presented.

Death Watch May Be Set On Irene And Dague Soon

If Unfavorable Report Is Made By Pardon Board Sheriff Will Act At Once

Sheriff Johnston is preparing to place a death watch on Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague, convicted of the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, as soon as final action is taken by the pardon board. Should the board refuse the application which is pending, the death watch will be placed upon the two prisoners at once.

It is customary to place a death watch on persons convicted of murder after they have been sentenced to death. This is for the purpose of preventing them from cheating the ends of justice by taking their own lives. The person employed as a death watch is supposed to keep the accused constantly under his eye until the time set for execution. As Irene and Dague are in different parts of the jail, it is likely that two watchers will be employed.

Seeks Good Home For Her Infant

Young Chewton Mother Asks For Some Family To Adopt Boy

Carrying a five weeks old baby in her arm, Mrs. Helen Powell Burik, of Chewton, visited The News office this morning, and asked that an appeal be made to the people of New Castle and Lawrence County for some family to adopt the baby.

The infant is a bright little boy, and it is the desire of the mother that he be given a good home. The father is out of work, and it is difficult to provide for the baby, the mother said, so she is seeking to have some family adopt it, in order that the boy may have a good home.

Address of the family is Wampum, Box 138, the mother said.

See Big Increase In Railroad Travel Over Christmas; Add Mail Cars

Indicative of an almost certain boom in Christmas holiday travel over local railroads in the announcement today by railroad officers here that regular passenger trains now in service will be augmented by extra equipment at an early date. The Pennsylvania railroad, on the E. and A. division, plans to add extra coaches to eight of its regular passenger trains beginning December 24 continuing through to the 27th. Additional mail and express cars will be placed on several trains December 17. Two extra mail cars to carry Pittsburgh mail will be placed in service by the P. and L. E. commencing December 17. They will be taken off Christmas day, or the day after. Other special equipment is planned by the B. and O. and other roads, since officials expect heaviest holiday travel in years. Efficiency Experts.—The prize-fighter who entered the ring at 8:55 and left at a nine o'clock call. Another thing that seems to be distributed very inefficiently is the weather.

Continue Work On The Narrows And Meyer Ave.

Councilman Stanley Treser stated today that a good percentage of the men listed as unemployed reported this morning and were put to work on Meyer Avenue storm sewer and widening of The Narrows. He said that the "cold snap" would make the work easier. The men now at work will finish their labor Wednesday night and receive their pay Friday. Those who worked part of last Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be paid at the city treasury, Tuesday afternoon. Council today approved the pay of the last group of workers and the payroll amounted as follows: Men employed on The Narrows $439.98: men employed in Meyer Avenue, $436.45. Pain prevented work part of Thursday and Friday. WILL ATTEND FUNERAL The Catholic Daughters of America will meet this evening at the home of Frank Nugent, 10 North Greenwood avenue, where they will hold a special requiem service for Mrs. Belle M. Nugent, who was a member of the New Castle court. The service will be held at 8:45. Pennzip—Starts Easily.

Spain May Set Up Martial Law

Martial Law Threatened In Spain, Results Of Revolutionary Actions

REVOLTERS WORK IN STRIKE GUIDE

By TOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, Dec. 15.—Martial law threatened throughout Spain today as the government of King Alfonso, which yesterday stamped out the last vestiges of the ill-fated Jaca rebellion and shot two of the leaders, warned revolutionary elements that general strikes scheduled by them for several important cities would be dealt with in sharp manner.

Informed that insurrectionists planned to resort to industrial paralyzation in place of frustrated military measures to drive out the king, the council of ministers gathered hastily at the palace and queried provincial governors as to their abilities to handle emergencies. Without exception the latter replied that they were prepared to cope with all developments, no matter how serious, and without government support.

The strikes, it was learned, were to be called simultaneously this morning at Madrid, Barcelona, Bilbao, Santander and later in the remaining centers. The commanders in these cities thereupon were instructed to avail themselves of martial law as soon as necessary.

The impending strikes placed the capital under extreme tension, and redoubled guards paced the streets and squares. Swift night raids quartered many revolutionary leaders in jail and produced hidden quantities of arms and ammunition.

Confiscate 1700 Gallons Of Wine

SHARON, Pa., Dec. 15.—Seventeen hundred gallons of wine was seized and eight persons were arrested on charges of violating the liquor laws in pre-holiday raids conducted by state police, county officers and constables yesterday. One of the arrests was in Sharon and the others were in Farrell. All of the defendants were held for court under $1,500 bail by Alderman H. E. Phipps. The largest amount of contraband was found at the home of Joe Zador, French street, Farrell, where 500 gallons of wine and 150 gallons of mash were seized.

38 Gunshot Wounds In Patients Body

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 15.—Eugene Feld, 40, of Geneva Hills, is in the Providence Hospital with 38 gunshot wounds in his legs. State police report that Constable John Shrum of Geneva Hill heard some one in his chicken coop and fired a shotgun loaded with buckshot at the intruder. Today Feld was found in his shack wounded.

Ashes Are Stocked On County Highways

The New Castle office of the State Department of Highways announced today that five highways in the county are being prepared for adverse weather conditions. Ashes are being piled along roads in different parts of the county. The piles are found on routes 79, 233, 81, 80 and 265.

Elephants Elect Officers For 1931

Joseph Nocera Is Elected New President Of South Side Elephant Club

About 50 members attended the regular monthly meeting of the South Side Elephant Club on Sunday afternoon at 1205 South Mill street when new officers for the 1931 year were elected. Joseph Nocera was elected president of this South Side organization.

Mr. Nocera succeeds Frank Mack as president. Frank Mack was elected vice president. Other officers elected are: Secretary, Charles Landolf; Treasurer, Ben Plink; Sergeant at arms, Steve Lasky; Club room manager, Daniel DeFalso; basketball manager, Betsy Parker; Business manager, George Mehalie.

The Social Committee chosen follows: Charles Landolf, Frank Mack, George Mehalie, Tony Cluff, Domenick Gabriel, Bat Parker, George Byak, Peter Vitell, M. Cassachia, Ben DeNuccio, John Soho and Don Alfaro. All the new officers of this club will start their new duties on January 1.

Eleven new members were initiated into the club on Sunday. The new members are: Mike Fazzone, Sam Deas, Phillip Farone, Frank Guido, Frank Nocera, Domenick Cluff, Charles Fedesco, Joseph DeRobbio, Angelo Cozza, Tony Eagen, and John Micco. With the addition of these new members, the Elephant Club is now made up of close to 80 members.

A committee of four members was selected to look into the matter of securing a club house for this club. The members were all in favor of a club house. Other matters which were discussed was the sponsoring of a basketball team.

The next meeting of the club will be held on next Sunday afternoon at 1205 South Mill street. This will be a special meeting and the last one of the present year.

Wood Chopper To Display Prowess

(International News Service)
MONT ALTO, Pa., Dec. 15.—Forestry students at the Pennsylvania State Forest School here will get the "low-down" on woodchopping, Dec. 15, when Peter McLaren, champion woodchopper of America, will give a demonstration of his craft. McLaren has posted an offer of $100 to anyone who can chop through a log in fifty per cent more time than he can.

A chopping contest will also be held between students of the school.

Tarentum Man Takes His Life

(International News Service)
TARENTUM, Pa., Dec. 15.—Charles Eberhardt, 54, a baker, was to enter a hospital today for an operation.

Several times recently he had expressed the fear that he would not come through the operation.

He arose early today and went to the rear of his bakery.

A shot rang out. Eberhardt's body, with a smoking gun nearby, lay on the floor.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

31. George Rogers Clark—Hamilton's Plans

ELATED OVER HIS EASY RECOVERY OF VINCENNES FROM THE AMERICANS (DEC. 17, 1778), COL. HAMILTON SENT HIS CANADIAN MILITIA AND MOST OF HIS INDIAN HOME AND REMAINED AT FORT SACKVILLE WITH ONLY 50 BRITISH REGULARS AND 100 REDSKINS.

INTENDING TO USE VINCENNES AS A BASE FOR FURTHER OPERATIONS AGAINST THE AMERICANS, HAMILTON STRENGTHENED FORT SACKVILLE AND MOUNTED CANNON IN THE UPPER STOREYS OF THE CORNER BLOCKHOUSES.

(Copyright, 1930, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

IN JANUARY HE SENT A LARGE PARTY OF INDIANS DOWN THE WABASH TO THE OHIO TO HARASS THE ISOLATED KENTUCKY SETTLEMENTS AND INTERCEPT ANY SHIPMENTS OF SUPPLIES FROM THE AMERICAN FRONTIER TO CLARK AT KASKASKIA.

KNOWING CLARK'S WEAKNESS AND NEVER DREAMING THAT THE YOUNG AMERICAN COMMANDER WOULD DARE TO RISK A BATTLE, HAMILTON PLANNED TO SPEND THE WINTER COMFORTABLY AT VINCENNES AND IN THE SPRING GATHER ALL HIS FORCES TO CRUSH THE "REBELS" IN ILLINOIS.

SOUTH SIDERS TRIM CROTON GRIDDERS, 13-0; WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

"Bud" Marino And Felix Adams Score Winning Touchdowns In Good Game

About 500 Fans Watch Benefit Football Game On Saturday After-noon

About 500 fans watched the Marcella football team of the south side win the 1930 independent championship on Saturday afternoon at Taggart field in a benefit game for the unemployed. The Siabtown grid-ders presented a puzzling at-tack to their opponents and as a result romped home with a 13-0 victory over the Croton pig-skin chasers.

The two independent teams of the city played a very interesting game of ball that had the rooters for both teams in their heels in many instances. The first quarter saw the Marcella eleven make two steady marches down the field near the goal only to lose the ball. The Cro-tonites played their best in the opening chapter, holding the win-ners in two instances in the first quarter. The first quarter ended with neither team scoring.

Marino Scores First.
At the start of the second quarter Croton was forced to kick near the goal line, the punt being some-what bad as the Marcellas took the ball on the 33-yard chalk mark. After completing one play "Bud" Ma-rino ran around left end behind per-fect interference from the 30-yard line for the first score to give the south siders a lead of six points. Richards failed to boot the ball be-tween the posts in the try for the extra point.

During the remainder of this quar-ter most of the playing was done near midfield. The third quarter saw an inspired Croton team on the field. The losers held the Marcellas scoreless in this quarter but at the start of the final chapter the win-ners scored again to "sew" up the contest.

Near the end of the third quarter Marino intercepted a pass and ran the piskin to scoring position. Through the aid of Adams, who played an excellent game at fullback for the winners throughout, the Marcellas were able to carry the ball to the one-yard line as the quarter ended. Harold Harris helped things by recovering for the Marcellas on the 1-yard line. Immediately as the final period got under way Adams broke through the Croton line for the second score for the south siders.

The extra point was annexed on a pass. DiThomas to Farnati. The Crotonites came close to scoring as the game came to an end when big Bruce Alexander got away for a 45-yard run as he was stopped on the 20-yard line. The losers tried des-perately to score but their attempts proved futile. The game ended with the Marcellas on top 13-0 and with the 1930 independent championship. The Marcellas appeared too good for the losers. Croton secured but one first down, which was made by Alexander. The Marcellas secured something like 11 first downs. The victory brought to a close a perfect season for the Marcellas, who were undefeated this season.

For the Marcellas the playing of Felix Adams, who time and again broke through the center of the line for nice gains, and "Bud" Marino, who directed the team like a veter-an, were outstanding in the back-field for the winners. On the line the work of Carl Genock, Harold Harris and George Mike featured. For the losers P. Colaluca and Mor-gan were the best.

The money procured in this con-test will be given to the mayor's re-lief committee today. Both teams wish to thank Ray Nolte, Sam Rich-ards and Frank Nocera, who donat-ed their services as officials.

The summary of the game fol-lows:
Marcellas 13 Croton A. C. 0
Genock R. T. Frampton
Rarris R. T. Grimes
Y. Marcella C. Cavalier
Beres L. G. R. Colaluca
DiMuccio L. E. Alexander
Marino Q. B. P. Colaluca
DiThomas L. H. Mollis
Richards C. R. H. Seward
Adams F. B. Nelson

Stecker Hero As Army Tops Navy In Charity Game

Naval Academy Boys Give Vaunted Army Eleven Real Tussle, In New York

FINAL SCORE IS 6 TO 0

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Ray Stecker, up until Saturday, just an Army football player, today occupies the spotlight of the East. It was this Stecker who raced 56 yards for the lone Army touchdown, against Navy to give the Cadets a 6 to 0 victory in the big charity battle at Yankee Stadium, New York City. New York's gigantic fund for the unemployed will total many thousands more to-day as a result of one of the biggest games in the history of the grid sport. For three periods the Middies from Annapolis gave the Cadets from the Plains of the Hudson, a tough engagement. Stecker broke away and raced the field for the only long run of the game, and con-sequently just what Army needed to give them the coveted victory.
It was a tough battle all the way. The play of the Navy gridgers caused the biggest surprise of the afternoon, because it was no secret in New York prior to game time that the Army might roll up an awful big score, but the Naval Academy boys had been aching since 1927 to get at the Army and they made the most of the opportunity.

Westminster Wins From Slippery Rock

Brownlee Leads Titans At-tack With Six Field Goals

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 15.—Westminster College opened its pre-season basketball schedule here Sat-urday night by defeating the fast Slippery Rock State Teachers Col-lege by a 49-23 score.

The Titans took the lead early in the game and were never on the short end of the score during the contest, but the first half found the Teachers presenting a strong de-fense which thwarted the attempts of the revamped Titan scoring ma-chine.

While the team which Coach "Pops" Harrison started played well enough, the boys were guilty of loose handling of the ball and ragged playing throughout most of the con-test, something to be expected so early in the season.

Westminster had a slim 10-10 ad-vantage at half time, but Harrison had used 10 men against Coach Thompson's crew, and the second five men could not get started for a while after they replaced the start-ing lineup.

Brownlee Leads
Harry Brownlee, Lock Haven giant, led the Titans in scoring with six field goals, three for each half. Bill Douglas, freshman lad from Indiana, was second in scoring with eight points, the result of three field goals and two fouls. For Slippery Rock, Captain Campbell, Homestead lad, and Nash, center, led with six and nine points respectively.

Coach Harrison used five forwards, three guards, and three centers against the Teachers in order to give every one of the 11 men on the first squad an opportunity to get some experience under fire. Brown-lee showed up best of the centers, although Williams looked good for the short time he was in the game. Chuck Arthurs, who replaced Brownlee and was later replaced by Williams, scored six points, the re-sult of two field goals and two fouls.

At forward, Bill Douglas, fresh-man lad, started nervously, then set-tled down, and indicated that as a protegee of Ken Delahanty he will be heard from. Jinx Hamas, midget forward, scored three field goals and a foul when he was injected into the game, and Mauno Sijlander likewise counted three field goals from his forward position.

Captain Rice played a good defensive game at guard, while Blauer and Fisher alternated at the other guard post in good style. Sheplar and Catala, substituted on the Teacher team, showed some fast floor work as did Captain Campbell and Nash. These four men, though small, were in every bit of action that took place, intercepted Titan passes again and again, and were good defensively.

Monessen High Wins W.P.I.A.L. Trophy

Defeats Redstone Eleven 12-6 On Saturday For School-boy Championship

Monessen high, located in West-moreland county is the 1930 W. P. I. A. L. football champion. Monessen high won the football crown on Sat-urday afternoon at Washington, Pa., by defeating Redstone high, 12-6.

When the schoolboy committee gathered together to figure out just who was who, mathematically, it was found that these two schools were so close to each other that the committee ordered a post season contest to decide the champs. The game was played Saturday with Monessen the new champs. The new winners succeed Clairton high.

Baseball, Jones 'n' Rain Feature April's Sports

The opening of the major league season on April 14 (President Hoover braved rain to view Washington's debut) featured the soggy month of April. As the teams took off on the long summer flight the Philadelphia Americans and the Chicago Nation-als were favored to win the two flags. Incidentally, Babe Ruth, base-ball's biggest Big Bertha fired his first home run over an outfield wall of April 25. A Boston pitcher was his victim.
While the baseball battle was get-ting underway the track stars were also enjoying themselves. On the same day, April 19, Clarence DeMar, veteran athlete and printer, won for

Indians Need Good Infield To Be In Race

WESLEY FERRELL IS GREAT HURLER

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The left side of the Cleveland infield is Roger Peckinpaugh's chief problem in strengthening the Indians for the 1931 pennant race.

Peck had hoped to close a deal for Willie Kamm, veteran third baseman of the White Sox, but nothing came of it. Now he must choose between Johnny Burnett, George Detore, a promising rookie from New Orleans, and Joe Sewell, who has slowed up considerably. Although he needs more seasoning, Burnett is a good hitter and probably will get the call.

Goldman Is Good
Peck likes Jonah Goodman's work at shortstop, but the former Syracuse star will never be charged with arson for setting the world on fire as a batsman. "Honey" Hunnefeld, the former White Sox player, will compete with Goldman for the shortstop berth. Hunnefeld has been no great shakes as a hitter and he is not as flashy a fielder as Goldman.

The Cleveland manager is counting heavily on three recruits to strengthen his pitching department. They are Howard Craghead, from Oakland in the Coast League, and Thomas, another Coast product; and Oral Hildebrand from Indianapolis.

Cleveland's pitching staff last season consisted of Wes Ferrell and six or seven other guys, as the fellow said. Jablonowski, the former Cincinnati, won eight and lost seven; Harder won eleven games and lost ten. Huddlin and Clint Brown were unable to break even.

Bank On Ferrell
The Cleveland staff as a whole allowed the opposition 4.89 earned runs per game, a poorer record than any other mound staff in the league except the St. Louis Browns. Contrast this with the fact that the Indians' batters earned 910 runs during the season, leading all other clubs, and you can see what a couple of good pitchers will mean to Peckinpaugh next season.

Ferrell won twenty-five games in 1930 and Peck expects him to have another great year next season. Roger would like to get Rick Ferrell from the Browns to give the Indians another good catcher and a "brother battery."

Morgan at First, Hodapp at second, Porter in right field and Averill in center are fixtures. The old favorite, Charley Jamieson, will divide the chores in left field with Bib Falk and Boob Seeds, a hard-hitting youngster. Vosmik, a Cleveland sandlot boy, is a good outfield prospect.

Yatt and Sprinz will help Luke Sewell with the catching and Ponsessa will be the utility first baseman. The city of Cleveland's new athletic plant, seating 77,000, will be completed next July and the Indians may play there starting in August, according to Peckinpaugh.

Macaluso, Mullins And Rothert Fine Fullbacks, Says Ex-Yale Star

MACALUSO Colgate
HOOD Pittsburgh
MULLINS Notre Dame
SANSSEN Iowa
ROTHERT Stanford

By TED COY
All-American Fullback, Captain of Yale

Written Exclusively for Central Press and New Castle News.
The past football season has produced a wealth of stellar fullbacks throughout the college ranks. I recall no other year when so many good backfield men as a whole have been developed, but as I have been asked to name only outstanding fullbacks I will confine selections within those limitations.

The college fullback has developed greatly in versatility in the past decade. From a ball carrier and generally a punter, he is now required to carry some of the burden of passing, as an interferer and finally as a defensive player. If he cannot play his part in the general all-around work of the backfield his worth is somewhat reduced, unless perchance he finds himself one of a collection of versatile backs.

Although the east has fared badly this season in its intercollegiate games it has, nevertheless, produced some fine fullbacks who must be given rating along with those stars of other districts whose records have outshone them. In fact, these eastern fullbacks have featured with their play in every game regardless of the result.

Macaluso Greatest
I select Leonard Macaluso, the 200-pound giant of Colgate, as the outstanding fullback of all-east, west, north or south. I would hesitate in my first choice were Joe Savoldi, the ex-Notre Dame terror, still prancing over the gridiron, but Savoldi's departure, premature and deplorable as it was, leaves the way clear to Macaluso.

At this writing Macaluso is leading the country in scoring and he has done it against some pretty stiff opposition. Consider four touchdowns scored against teams of the calibre of Syracuse and Columbia. In addition Len has crossed the goal line of Penn State, somewhat weaker than the first named, four times.

To my mind Macaluso is plenty good enough to fit into any backfield in the country today if for no other reason than his ability to carry the ball. However, the Colgate star has been used in the general all-around play of his team and has never been found wanting.

John Schneller of Wisconsin is another great fullback. His work has been a valuable aid to his mates this year. In the game with Minnesota, Schneller was outstanding in his offensive play, scoring one of the two touchdowns registered against the Badgers and thus enabling the Gophers to annex fourth place in the Big Ten standings. Schneller is a strong defender, a sure tackler and a quick diagnostician and aid in checking the enemy's offense.

Likes Mullins, Too
Although he has been overshadowed by the work of Joe Savoldi and by such super-scuttillates as Marchmont Schwartz, Marty Brill and Frank Carideo, Larry "Moon" Mullins of Notre Dame is truly eligible for consideration as an All-American. Were Mullins to have performed on another team carrying fewer of these stars during the 1930 season his real worth would have been recognized. Mullins is a fast, shifty runner, a good line smasher and while he was not called upon to punt, he has been one of the main cogs in Rockne's great South Bend machine.

Opasik of Indiana university carries the stamp of approval and the respect of many coaches throughout the middle west. And well he may. Little heard of, perhaps, outside of that section, Opasik is one of the best forward pass hurlers in college ranks. He has cracked the line of all opponents this year and even the powerful Purdue line was unable to stop his slashes.

Out on the west coast Harlow Rothert, wearing the colors of Leand Stanford university, has been featuring the Cardinal play with his work all season. This boy has the class and size necessary and has been particularly useful to Pop Warner's team as a shifty broken field runner and line plunger.

There are several fine young fullbacks who deserve mention when the All-American team is considered. They include Reb Russell of Northwestern, Schooke of Kansas, Faurot of Missouri, Joe Morbito of Carnegie Tech, Wilson of Washington and Jefferson, Ralph Hewitt of Columbia, Sansen of Iowa, Roy Hudson of Michigan, Franklin Hood of Pitt, Charley Fiesiewicz of Fordham, and Clark Hinkle of Bucknell.

This article concludes "Who's Who in 1930 Football" series.

Marcella Quintet Plays Two Games

South Siders Will Play Wampum Merchants And New Wilmington Merchants

Marcella basketball team, a newly organized team will open the 1930-31 floor season on Tuesday night at Wampum, Pa., playing the Wampum Merchants at the Opera House floor. On Thursday night the South Siders meet the New Wilmington Merchants at New Wilmington.

The Marcellas were to open the season last week at the Savio Gymnasium, meeting the South Side Merchants. Due to the fact that the Savio floor is undergoing repairs the game was postponed. The Marcellas would like to book games with any fast quintet in the city or neighboring towns. Games are wanted with Hillsville, Plaingrove, West Pittsburgh, Harlansburg, and Mahoningtown. Games can be arranged by calling 858 and asking for Fred.

Four Injured In Auto Accident

Jack Gerson And Wife, And Hyman Wolf And Wife Slightly Hurt

Four New Castle people narrowly escaped serious injury and possible death Sunday afternoon when the automobile of Jack Gerson, well known jeweler of this city, overturned near Chagrin Falls, O. Mr. and Mrs. Gerson were bruised and cut, and Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Wolf, also of New Castle were slightly injured. They all were taken into Cleveland where their injuries were dressed.

The accident was one caused by another car. A driver coming towards New Castle was "hogging" the road and in an endeavor to avoid hitting him, Mr. Gerson was forced to veer his car sharply to one side. The move skidded the car and it turned over on its side, cutting the occupants with flying glass and bruising them. None of the injuries are serious although the car was badly damaged.

Confirmation Of Real Estate Sale

Confirmation of the sale of real estate made by Charles Matthews, administrator of the estate of the late Attorney A. Martin Graham, was made by the court this morning. The property sold consisted of a one fourth interest in a farm in Washington township, which was sold to Thomas and Marie Drake for $514.72 and an interest in another parcel of land which was sold for $200.87.

High Scoring Star

Scoring in 146 consecutive games for a total of 2,596 points over a period of seven years is the record of John (Bugs) Bonner, star forward of the Temple university, Philadelphia, basketball team. He also boxes, plays football and baseball.

Many Stop Signs At Road Crossing

Perry Highway Intersection At Harlansburg Now Supposed To Be Protected

Since the accident in which Mrs. Sophia McDonald was killed at the intersection of the Perry Highway and the New Castle-Slippery Rock road at Harlansburg, the state highway department has installed a number of new stop signs which are illuminated at night by reflection from headlights of automobiles. These had not yet been installed at the time of the fatal accident.

There are nearly a dozen signs at the intersection of the roads and at the connecting "Y", so many, in fact, that they are likely to prove confusing to the motorist, but necessary in view of the conglomeration of crossings.

Those who contend that this is a small matter after all probably never have been required to walk a mile or two for gasoline.—The Seattle Times

Army And Navy Still Far From Being Friendly

Not Likely That Football Relations Will Be Resumed For Many Years To Come

GAME SATURDAY WAS JUST FEELER

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Like two women who have not spoken for years and suddenly come face to face at a bridge game, stood the army and navy today.

With haughty politeness and clanking glances which said as much as a Russian novel, the cadets and middies went through their football game Saturday and raised $600,000 for charity but this morning it looked as though they would not give two cents for tradition.

In other words icicles as thick as the stone walls of West Point were clattering up Yankee stadium when the Army walked off with the service ice battle with a 6 to 0 score and chances for resumption of relations between the two academies were exceedingly slight. Both the Army and Navy were happy they were able to aid a worthy cause, but the West Pointers failed to indicate either officially or unofficially that they even remotely desired to restore the historic meeting of the two elevens.

Army's schedule is already made up for 1931 and the attitude of the boys up the Hudson concerning a Navy game in the near future is as stiff and reserved as one of their military drills. Navy officials and players seemed to get a keener relish out of the game Saturday than the Army even though they lost and it would seem that the first step for a renewal of the Army-Navy contest will have to come from Annapolis.

Does Quick Work Notifying Jurors

Sheriff Frank N. Johnston did some quick work Saturday in notifying jurors drawn for this week that they need not appear, as there were no more cases to be tried. As there were some eighty jurors on the list this was no small job. Those who could be reached were notified by telephone. In other cases those who did not have telephones were reached through those who had.

Why expect other laws to work when the old law of supply and demand isn't functioning except in the first half?

LOSE POOL CONTEST

Rotary Troop 1 scouts, competing with a team of Ben Franklin junior high school swimmers in a meet held semi-annually, lost out after a valiant attempt to win. The final score was 28 to 21. Eighteen members, Scoutmaster Hite and Assistant Scoutmaster McCandless were out to see it.

COMPLETE TEST WORK
Eighteen boys of Croton Troop 6 with Scoutmaster George McCracken met at the Croton church recently in a regular meeting. One committeeman was present. Tests in knife, hatchet and compass work were passed. Instruction was given in second class first aid.

Scribe, Bus Wimer.
STUDY DOT AND DASH
Instructions in the dot and dash code was Scoutmaster W. C. Brophy's message to Ellwood Troop 2 at a recent meeting. The fireman's carry relay game was played. Patrols of the troop also met. Troop Committeemen Miller and Crowley attended.

Scribe, Harry Johnson.
HELPING UNEMPLOYED
At the regular meeting of the Highland U. P. Troop 18 this week, each boy will bring ten cents instead of the five cent dues, for Mayor Gillespie's relief fund campaign. The troop's session last week was most interesting. Scout Commissioner Ralph Davis was in charge with Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Offutt and Senior Patrol Leader Hawkins assisting. Besides there were Committeemen Sproull, Fehl and Martin present.

Instructions were given in several tests, after which a compass and a signaling contest took place. Edwin Harper won the compass contest and Heber Baldwin won the signaling meet.

Radio Examiner Hands In Report

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—In a report to the Federal Radio Commission today Chief Examiner Ellis A. Yost recommended that existing regulations be amended to permit all cleared channel stations to operate with 50 kilowatts power. Yost conducted extensive hearings on the applications of many stations for higher power. The Radio Commission has limited the number of 50 kilowatt licenses to four to each of the radio zones.

The commission immediately took the report under consideration, it was indicated it would be given long and careful study before any action is taken.

Legionnaires To Continue Fight For Facilities

Pennsylvania Legionnaires Carry Battle To House Sub-Committee

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The plea of the American Legion of Pennsylvania for more hospital facilities was to be carried before the house veterans sub-committee on hospitals today by State Commander Charles L. Engard and other Legionnaires.

The Legion program includes enlargement of Aspinwall and Coatesville hospitals, new naval hospital in Philadelphia, new tuberculosis hospital in the north-central part of the state and a diagnostic center in Philadelphia. The entire program would cost about $7,500,000.

Pennsylvania, the Legion commander declares, is not given the same hospital facilities of other large states. While veterans bureau hospitals in New York take care of 87 per cent of the state's disabled service men and hospitals in Illinois take care of 83 per cent, but 47 per cent of Pennsylvania's disabled war veterans get into hospitals in the state.

The hearing was the first scheduled on the $52,000,000 hospital bill of Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers (R) of Massachusetts. She is chairman of the sub-committee which began hospital hearings today.

Gives Honor To Oldest Living Grad

(International News Service)
LIBERTY, Mo., Dec. 15.—William Jewell college here celebrated the diamond graduation of its oldest living alumnus, Richard M. Johnson, retired farmer of Belton, Mo., who was graduated in the class of 1855. Accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Catherine Harrellson, herself the mother of a William Jewell alumnus, Ben Harrellson, of the class of 1911, Johnson revisited the scene of his college days for the first time since his graduation.

At a special convocation, President John F. Herget, of William Jewell presented Johnson with a book of views of the college, bound especially for the occasion. Johnson now is 94 years old.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

It isn't a bad idea now and then to step over into your neighbor's lot and see how he is doing. It may be that he has some ideas you can use, and you may have some he can use. Same principle applies to business or religion. Dropped around yesterday morning to see the First Baptist Sunday School, which at the present time is in a battle with the Calvary Baptist Church of Norristown, Pa., for percentage of gain in attendance.

Some of the lads who never get into any Sunday school could well afford the time to drop around there some Sunday morning. You'd wonder where they all came from, particularly when you remember that the other schools are full also.

They have a men's Bible class that needs a large room to accommodate, and if it continues to grow, they may have to take over the stadium or the Cathedral.

They had 160 men yesterday morning or perhaps a few more, which is a class, isn't it? Any time you can get that many men together on Sunday morning, there's a reason for it.

Norristown is a peculiar place, but a pretty place. Like the rest of the eastern part of the state, some of them still imagine we kill buffalo out here, and that the Indians still take to the warpath occasionally.

For the purpose of changing some of those opinions it might be well if the Baptists here lost the contest and gave the winner's representatives a free trip to New Castle. But on the other hand it would be much better if the New Castle Baptists won and got the trip down there, and I hope they do.

Don't make any mistake about the little girls who serve you your cakes and sausage in the local hasheries. Kidding them has long since passed out as an indoor sport. The lass who serves you may have her mind on most anything these days, and still serve you efficiently.

One waitress in town is an aviation student. She already has many hours in the air and needs but a few more to get a license. Why she wants to be an aviator is one to ask her, but at any rate she does, and probably by next summer will be flying solo.

Another one has a brother in an eastern university, there because she is willing to do a hard day's work every day in the week. And still another has a college degree back of her name and is qualified to teach history, but would sooner deal 'em off the arm. For experience.

It is always a laugh to see some drug store cowboy climb up on to a restaurant stool and begin to toss his line to the waitress. The girl is always impressed, apparently, but you should get their real opinion of the lads who crack wise.

There's a restaurant owner here whose English is not as pure as a descendant of the Mayflower, but who has a past rich in color and education. In his own country he was a school teacher, later a captain in his nation's army, has an intellectual background that would do credit to many a professional man, but came to America to better his opportunities.

This University of Alabama football team must be good. Either that or Tom Moorhead of Ellwood City is wrong, and he usually knows a football team when he sees one. Got a letter from him today, from Tuscaloosa, Ala., and if he's right, Washington State hasn't much of a chance on New Year's Day.

In the All-America selection made by Rockne, Jones, Alexander et al, Sington of Alabama gets a place on the line, and according to Moorhead, he richly deserves it. He calls him the best lineman in America. In addition to that he is a straight "A" student and by the time the team leaves for the coast will have his Phi Beta Kappa key.

West Virginia Man Is Freed Of Charge

West Virginia Man, Given Freedom By Butler Judge, Jury Fails To Agree

(International News Service)
BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 15.—John Deel, of Charleston, W. Va., was free today of a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor after the jury, unable to agree on a verdict, caused Judge James O. Campbell to express open disappointment at the result.
Judge Campbell pointed out to the jury that the testimony in the case offered by a highway patrolman and a physician showed that Deel was intoxicated at the time of his arrest.
Deel was taken to the office of Dr. Arthur I. Stewart, of Harmony, by Police Chief Raymond Thompson, of Zelienople, who arrested him October 26 last, the jurist said.
Dr. Stewart, although he admitted he did not make the usual medical tests, admitted in court it was his belief the prisoner was intoxicated when arrested.
Deel told the court he had been employed in Youngstown and New Castle as a steam shovel operator. He had been confined in the Butler county jail 45 days following his arrest.

Daniel Leasure Auxiliary To Have Christmas Party

Supplanting the regular business meeting this week the Daniel Leasure Auxiliary 52 will have a Christmas party in the Legion Home on Tuesday at 8 o'clock.
The auxiliary will entertain the members of Daniel Leasure Camp 24, their families and friends.
An entertainment has been planned, there will be a Santa Claus, who will distribute a treat and there will be a lunch served at the close of the program.
The committee in charge has arranged for a delightful Christmas party with exchange of gifts among the auxiliary members.

Oak Street P. T. A. Plans Yule Party Thursday Evening

Santa Claus, Christmas carols, gifts for the needy, and a large illuminated tree in the yard of the Oak street school will feature the Christmas party arranged for Thursday evening by the Parent-Teacher Association of the school.

At 7 o'clock the children of the school will meet when Santa Claus will greet them and give each a treat.
At 8 o'clock the parents will assemble about the large tree erected in the school yard, and under its lighted boughs will join with the children in placing their white gifts and singing Christmas carols.
Miss Grace Eakin will direct the children in the singing and the adult singing will be in charge of C. H. Martin.

"Blind Charlie" Makes Request

Charlie W. Thomas known to the citizens of the city as "Blind Charlie" who stands on East Washington street daily depending on the good will of the people is looking forward to an enjoyable Christmas despite his handicap.
Blind Charlie has been minus his eye sight since 1898 and has depended on the good nature of the people for his living since. "Blind Charlie" stated this morning that he would appreciate it very much if the citizens would aid him in having an enjoyable Christmas.

Christmas Program At Christian Church

Annual Christmas Program And White Gift Service Given In Central Christian

The first of the Christmas programs in the city churches was held Sunday evening in the Central Presbyterian church of which Rev Jesse B. Porter is pastor, with the auditorium filled with members and friends of the church.
The white gift featured the program and the pulpit and altar of the church had been appropriately decorated for the event, a large white cross being the center about which the significance of the gifts centered.
The scripture lesson was read by A. W. Bauman, superintendent of the Sabbath school and Thomas Phelps gave the opening prayer.
The various classes presented their gifts in an unique way, with an appropriate number accompanying the giving as follows:
Exercise by Primary Department—Leona Dilks, Thelma Frey, Bertha Sullivan.
Mrs. Davis' class—Reading—Dennis Allshouse.
Mrs. Cameron's class—Duet—Grace Irwin, Betty Walls.
